Rochester, N. H., Feb. 1.-Mrs. Provenchia came to this city yesterday from Somersworth, deliberately murdered 18-year-old Annie Cox, and then made good her escape. The officers are looking for her, but so far without suc-

The story which resulted in yestervenchia and his wife separated about and a young son removed to Rochester. Here, last summer, Provenchia opened a blacksmith shop.

Mrs. Provenchia visited her husband several times of late, in an endeavor to effect a reconciliation, but to no purpose. Yesterday, on seeing her husband, she asked him to kiss her. He refused, and stated that he did not wish to have anything to say to her. She answered significantly that she would make it hot for him, and that she intended to no remonstrance.

have revenge. Provenchia, about four months ago, was a bright and vivacious girl, and Mrs. Provenchia had seen her on several of her visits. It seems that Mrs. Provenchia became very jealous of Miss Cox, and it is claimed that the former made threats against the latter. Yesterday, when she came from Som-ersworth, she had her husband's sister for company, and together they went to the house of Mrs. Fuse, mother of Mrs. Provenchia, where both had dinner. It was from this house that Mrs. Provenchia left to find her husband, for the purpose, it is alleged, of killing him.

Mrs. Fuse says that in conversation while at the house, Mrs. Provenchia said her object in visiting Rochester was to find and kill her husband and the Cox woman. She had a 44-calibre revolver with her at the time, which she had procured from a policeman at Somersworth. Mrs. Fuse says that she entreated Mrs. Provenchia not to do anything rash. About 3 o'clock Mrs. Provenchia left the house, and went directly to her husband's house. What there occurred is only known from what Mrs. Fuse told the police as the substance of conversation occurring between Miss Cox and Mrs. Provenchia.

Mrs. Fuse says her daughter said that she would not. Mrs. Provenchia then

For some reason the young man delayed informing the police, and when he did so Mrs. Provenchia had been carried away on the freight train. The body was found in the sitting room of the house face downward, the head resting on a cuspidore. Four shots were fired, all taking effect. The doctors believe that when the first shot hit Miss Cox in the left arm she turned to run, and the other shots lodged in the back. She fell to the floor, her head striking on the cuspidore. She did not move after falling. In searching the house the police found Compelled Senator Gray to Change His Views Concerning the Treaty.

Against Permanent Occupation of the Philippines.

Senator Money Would Leave Filipinos to Work Out Their Own Salvation.

Washington, Feb. 1 .- Senators Gray session of the senate yesterday in speeches on the peace treaty, Senator Money opposing it.

Senator Gray was the third of the Paris commissioners to speak, but while he gave some attention to the published matter bearing on the treaty, he did not go into this in such detail as did Senators Frye and Davis. He admitted that in the beginning of the negotiations he had been opposed to the acquisition of the Philippine archipelago, and said that he had freely and frankly advised the president and his fellow commissioners of his belief that it would be unwise to attempt to shape its destiny. plans were made for only one hundred, and others. but the advance sale of tickets exceeded that, and hasty preparations were made for fifty more. So generously did the gentlemen provide that SCHOOL here was an abundance for all, although the number went to nearly 200. The supper was really a dinner and was served in courses steaming hot. The menu was:

Tomato Sonp. Celery. Hot Roast Turkey. Cranberry Sauce Boiled Potatoes. Turnip. Onions. Squash. Oranges. Bananas Rolls. Coffee.

There was praise for the tomato soup, and the turkey was juicy and tender. Even at the second table, which it was necessary to set for sixty or more, the food was warm and there was plenty of it. The service was also excellent, and the well known gentle men who acted as waiters, must have been in training under the direction of Mr. W. H. Dean for several weeks But much of the credit for the excel lent supper is due to Mr. Dexter E. Wadsworth, the very efficient chair man. He was ably assisted in the kitchen and at the tables by Deacon T. Few Important Amendments Just Before Vote Was Taken.

Discretion of President .

Washington, Feb. 1.—The Hull army bill passed the house yesterday, 168 to 125.

It provides for a standing army of approximately 100,000 men.

It is left in the discretion of the president, however, to reduce the number to about 60,000 men.

It is expected that the smaller number will be the standard in ordinary times, but in any emergency, or to meet special requirements, the maximum strength of 100,000 will be available. The reduction to 60,000 is to be made by reducing the size of the companies and not by decreasing their number, and thus at all times the full organization is left intact. Before the war with Spain the standing

to 14 artillery regiments. It was the result of a week of hard and often picturesque fighting on the which was a reduction of 321 in the number of staff officers. In consequence of these modifications, the Republican opposition was practically vanished, and on the final vote but six Republicans voted against the bill-Messrs. Barber (Md.), Connelly (Ills.), Loud (Cal.). Johnson (Ind.), McEwan (N. J.) and Wadsworth (N. Y.). This Republican defection was, however, almost offset by five members of the political oppoition, who voted in favor of the bill-Messrs. Berry (Ky.), McClellan (N. Y.), McAleer (Pa.), Taylor (Ala.), Democrats, and Skinner (N. C.), Populist.

The galleries were crowded throughout the day, and every member who could possibly be there was on the floor the could to record his vote on the final rollcall. The program yesterday included a provision for two hours of general debate, which was to be occupied by Messrs. Dalzell of Pennsylvania and Hopkins of Illinois, in closing for the majority, and Messrs. Bailey of Texas and Settle of Kentucky for the opposition, but this program was smashed, owing to the failure to complete the bill under the five-minute rule before 3 o'clock, the hour set for the vote.

If this too lax and over-generous United States government is indulgent, Pinar Del Rio?" the greater the opposition will be to the ultimate coercive measures that may become necessary if the Cubans refuse the $3,000,000 or any other reasonable sum for the payment of the Cuban army. Good judges here are convinced that the United States ought to insist upon immediate disarming and disbanding without pay. The time and the conlitions are propitious to take the neces-

The exremes of opinion are represented on the one hand by the Cuban military chiefs, demanding immediate and absolute independence, and on the other by the purely Spanish element, seeking protection under our flag. Between the two extremes are ranged the main body of the people, standing in an expectant attitude, ready to give their approval to any plan that will re-establish law, order and material prosperity upon a permanent basis.

"Upon one point all agree-American officers and Cubans-and that it that round exhibition between Ryan and army, composed of at least 30,000 idle boxer, landing freely. Sharkey was farm, was placed under arrest yesterwill enable them to resume life again.

"When I asked those who had a right to speak for the army what sum would suffice for a satisfactory settlement, they said $10,000,000 or $11,000,000 at least, a sum that would give about $300 to each man. With that, they said, the small farmers could procure stock and live until they could make a crop.

"The Cubans neither ask nor desire us to contribute a penny for the payment of their army. All they ask is that a loan should be made for the purpose charged upon their customs houses, now yielding from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000 a year, the proceeds to be paid to their soldiers through the military authorities. Every class there is demanding that a settlement be made at once, so that a menacing body of idle men may be converted into peaceful producers. In that way the industries of the country could be revived, and the force dissolved, like the army of Cromwellwhich is not only a military party, but the predominant party in the island. "I cannot doubt that if the just claims that will force us either to withgraw from the island or to govern there just as Russia does in Poland. Wise and humane as our military governors are, the fact remains that they govern by the sword, and in defiance of the civil power, and the result is that impatience and discontent are already clearly manifested on every hand. The urgent need in Cuba now is a prompt and statisfactory settlement with the army of the revolution, and the establishment as can have a voice.

"The president should labor unceas ingly to attain both ends, and in the affort to do so should have the cordial co-operation and support of all patriotic and liberty loving men, regardless of how suicidal it is to carry our party difficulties into our foreign affairs. The patriotic instinct of Mr. Bryan hit the mark when he urged the immediate ratification of the pending treaty, and the settlement of all difficulties afterwards.

"The senate should end at once the present situation, so detrimental to all our foreign relations, while congress, as a whole, should give to the president military administration believe that settle every foreign question now demanding immediate solution."

Portland, Me., Feb. 2.-Mrs. Lizzie Provencher, who on Tuesday murdered Annie Cox, who was acting as housekeeper for her husband at Rochester, N. H., was captured in this city yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Provencher arrived in this city at 10:20 Tuesday night on a Pullman. Afevery facility necessary to enable him to ter leaving the station Mrs. Provencher says she went to the Jefferson hotel, where she spent the night. She remained in her room during the morning, and it might have taken the officers some time longer to locate her had she not left the hotel and returned to the Union Havana, Feb. 2.-El Diario de La station, presumably with the intention of getting still further away from the

A reporter attempted to obtain an interview with Mrs. Provencher, but she would not make some statement, she replied: "No; I have nothing to say, not a word." Then she placed her handkerchief to her eyes and cried.

After the prisoner was locked up there was a discussion among the various outof-town officers as to who should return to Rochester with the woman, but as none of the officers had a warrant for her arrest, and as City Marshal Sylvester was unwilling to turn such an important prisoner over to any officer who did not hold a warrant for her, the marshal telephoned to Sheriff Hayes of Dover, who informed him that he would come to Portland today with the necessary papers in his possession to take the woman back to Rochester.

Apoplexy Caused Death. Amesbury, Mass., Feb. 2.-Edward Mann, the alleged assailant of Superinview of the finding of the physician attending Page, that he died from apoplexy. Dr. Murphy, Page's physician, states there is a possibility that the man's death was hastened by his encounter with Mann, but it is very improbable. The body bears no marks whatever, and the doctor claims, that a post mortem examination would throw no light on the Brattleboro's Big Blaze.

Brattleboro, Vt., Feb. 2.-The entire plant of S. A. Smith & Co., manufacturers of baby carriages and toys, was destroyed by fire yesterday. Among the burned buildings were a large five-story factory and L, two smaller factories and several lumber sheds and outbuildings The overall factory of Hooker, Corser & Mitchell was somewhat damaged, and the bottling establishment of C. M. Eddy was flooded with water. The loss of S. A. Smith & Co. and the damage to the other buildings will bring the total loss to over $75,000.

The Soap that Suits

For the toilet Fairy Soap is pleasant, mild and cleansing. It is delicately scented, contains no coloring matter, no impurities, and is perfectly harmless to the tenderest skin-it suits. For the bath Fairy Soap is the favorite because it lathers freely, does not injure the skin, cleanses perfectly, and floats-it suits.

FAIRBANK'S FAIRY SOAP

for the laundry is harmless to both hands and clothing, removes dirt without burning out dyes or wearing out threads. It saves dollars by sparing the clothes. It contains no resin to gum the clothes. It lasts longer than common soaps—it suits.

SAVED BY A POSTAL CARD.

Thousands who have written for one of the free trial bottles of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy have literally had their lives saved by a postal card. They got the trial bottle and it proved to them that Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was the only real cure for diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood, Rheumatism, Dyspepsia and Chronic Constipation. They bought a large sized bottle of their druggists and it benefited or cured them (the above is not an idle statement, but the result of careful investigation).

You can do the same thing. If you are in doubt as to whether you have trouble with your Kidneys or Bladder, put some of your urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours, if it has sediment, or a milky, cloudy appearance, if it is ropy or stringy, pale or discolored you should lose no time in taking Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, it can be had of all druggists at $1.00 a large bottle or six bottles for $5.00. It is without question the surest medicine of the age to put a stop to such dangerous symptoms as pain in the back, a frequent desire to urinate especially at night, scalding burning pain in passing water inability to hold urine and all the unpleasant and dangerous effects produced on the system by the use of whiskey and beer

Send your full name and address to the Dr. David Kennedy Corporation, Rondout, N. Y., and be sure to men tion the Quincy Ledger when a tria bottle, with pamphlet of valuable medical advice, will be mailed to you absolutely free. The publishers of this paper guarantee the genuineness of this liberal offer.

Teller and Hoar Differ In Opinions of Aguinaldo.

A Day of Interesting Debate Concerning Ratification of Peace Treaty.

Washington, Feb. 2.-Senators Teller and Hoar were the speakers in the executive session of the senate yesterday. Mr. Teller made a set speech in support of the treaty, and Mr. Hoar replied. Both went over much ground that had been covered before, but some new points were brought out.

Mr. Teller devoted especial attention they could be considered capable of taking care of themselves, and he based much of his argument upon the incapability demonstrated by their leader, bility demonstrated by their leader, extent of $18,000,000 additional. To Heartily Co-operate In Work of Reconstructing Cuba.

Attitude of Old Fighter Is Much More Cordial Than Anticipated.

Remedios, Santa Clara, Feb. 3.-Robert P. Porter, the special representative of President McKinley, has succeeded in securing the active co-operation of General Gomez in the work of reconstruction in the island, and the problem of making Cuba free seems easier today than it ever has before.

The news is most gratifying, in view of the attitude previously assumed by General Gomez. He has now promised to co-operate in distributing the $3,-000,000 to be paid to the Cuban soldiers before disbanding, and to help in getting things started on a proper basis.

GENERAL GOMEZ.

The Cuban commander-in-chief replied that he was ready and willing to give the aid required, but asked how he ould do so.

To this, Mr. Porter replied that President McKinley would be glad to have him go to Havana and co-operate with General Brooke in disbanding the Cubans and in paying over the $3,000,000 appropriated for that purpose.

General Gomez said the amount was Safeguards the food too small, but that was not his fault, and he would make it go as far as possible, against alum. while likening it to the miracle of the loaves and fishes. Alum baking powders are the greatest menacers to health of the present day.

Personal independence should be taught in our schools. Unless a young man starts in life with fixed ideas and a large, amount of self denial, he fails. Self denial is the basic principal. Dare to do only what you can afford to do. It need not interfere with one's health. Why do ninety-five per cent. of all merchants fail? That is a question to be solved by the young, for the middle aged and old men will not learn new ways. Making money by methods that do not debauch is legitimate.

Indeed, when the report arrived that General Gomez had accepted Mr. Porter's proposition on behalf of President McKinley many doubted it, refusing to believe that he would act in this fashion. A prominent Cuban said yesterday afternoon:

"If the news is true, the Cuban assembly will have grounds for proceeding against General Gomez. The idea of $3,000,000 as a gift from the United States to the Cuban soldiers is repugnant and wounds the pride of Cubans.'

A number of interviews obtained yesterday with prominent Cuban generals will go to show the feeling in the higher military circles.

General Rodriguez, second in command in the Cuban army, said: "I cannot think that General Gomez would take this resolution regarding a matter of such transcendental importance as the payment and disbandment of the Cuban army without consulting the Cuban generals. A G oucester Sensation. Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 4.—At a meeting of the board of aldermen last night a commission was granted in Edward Dolliver, collector of taxes and city treasurer, to employ a deputy. During the consideration of the subject, Alderman Donahoe, who opposed the order. created a sensation by saying that under the jurisdiction of the office of ollector of taxes there had been a defalcation by a deputy collector of taxes. He did not make the charge against Richard L. Morley, the present incumbent, but against one of his predecessors. No reflection on Mr. Dolliver was intended, but he said that there had been discrepancies of the deputy collector of taxes, and it is time it is shown up.

CURRENT MISCELLANY.

If it be once admitted that a century is 100 years—and we never heard of any other definition -where is the room for controversy? From that admission it ollows with almost ludicrous inevitability that every century ends at the close of its one hundredth year and that the next century begins at the beginning of the next year. To be definite, the nineteenth century of the Christian era will be completed when 1,900 years mirers in the last few years. Yet it is have elapsed since the first year of the almost within the past season that they | Christian era began-that is, at the inappear with one bound to have gained stant when Dec. 31, 1900, turns from a place in accordance with their merits "today" into "yesterday," while the in public esteem, as indicated by their twentieth century starts on its course pervading presence and popularity at just as soon as one can with accuracy recent plant shows, exhibitions, etc. say, "This is Jan. 1, 1901." And yet American Gardening has for some time folks maunder on about "the year 0," though there never was a "year 0" since time began and never could have

Curiously enough, nobody ever felt any uncertainty at all in any of the innumerable cases exactly like this one of the centuries. No man, for instance, ever failed to know when he had saved $100 or when he had begun on the second hundred, and no man or even woman who has lived for 40 years is troubled with doubts as to when the second twoscore years which he or she hopes to live begin. And did a bicycle rider ever ask questions as to the milepost at which he entered upon his second "century?" We think not. Indeed we are sure not, and yet for months past we have been receiving almost daily letters imploring us for information about the dividing line between the nineteenth and the twentieth century. Good Afternoon.

Should the Water Commissioners be abolished, different legislation will be necessary as to appropriations for the extension of the water works. Heretofore it has been the custom to appropriate about $30,000 and leave it discretionary with the Water Commissioners where the extension shall be made. Without a Water Board, extensions should be considered as special street improvements have been,-by a committee of the City Council. Each extension of water mains will then be considered upon its merits by the Committee on Water Supply. Some of the extensions in the past have not been urgent, and it is probable that the City Council will not find it necessary to appropriate so large a sum for extensions in the future. So long as the annual appropriation for extensions exceeds the maturing water debt, which is now $29,500 annually, the water debt of the city will not be decreased. With extensions in the hands of the City Council, the legislative body, some of the objection to the proposed transfer would be removed.

Today is the last active day for the city department officials of 1898-99, but there is one who will be alert through Sunday until the hour he relinquishes his office on Monday, and that is C. F. Knowlton, the efficient Commissioner of Public Works for

The city is increasing rapidly in population because many from outside cities and towns are selecting Quincy for their homes, but aside from this the excess of births over deaths is jumping the population day by day. In 1898 there were over 800 births, an average of over two per day, and during the same period but 358 deaths, an average of less than one per day. Thus every day, from vital statistics alone, Quincy is gaining in population, and this gain amounts to 450 in a year. In 1888 the last year of the town government, only ten years ago, there were but 450 births.

THE RAILWAYS AND LABOR.

The Black List and Other Questions Discussed by Secretary Moseley. Edward A. Moseley, secretary of the interstate commerce commission, made an interesting witness before the industrial commission at their rooms in the Bliss building. He had been invited to speak especially on the syllabus of the subcommission on transportation and entertained the commissioners for three

He had much to say about the difficulty of effectively blocking blacklisting by railroad companies of the employees whom they dismiss. Blacklisting means the use of all devices to prevent their employment by other lines. Mr. Moseley said that after the Debs strike the railroad companies gave letters of recommendation freely enough to former employees who could not well be mendations in such a way as to notify sympathizing companies that the recommended men had been blacklisted. bined with the cold weather has made He explained to the commission how difficult it is to reach a blacklisting sys tem of this ingenious character.

Talking on the subject of injunction. he referred to an incident on the Toledo and Ann Arbor road, where Lennon, a locomotive engineer, had been fined and even imprisoned because of his refusal to take his locomotive out after the court had ordered him to return to work, and told how Judge Rix, who issued the injunction restraining ice, had been transported from one end of the road to the other in a private car and made his injunction right in the The Rev. The questions of the liability of railroad companies for injury sustained by their employees while at work for the company was elaborated fully, and the were carried by the defendant company from the state courts, in which the suits are usually begun, to the federal courts, on one ground or another.

Mr. Moseley dwelt at some length upon the results of the enforcement of the safety appliance act, which, though passed in 1893, did not go into effect until 1898. These improvements had been introduced by the railroads at a cost of millions. He added that all but about 30 per cent of the railroad companies were provided with that particu paper in Norfolk county which can master car builder's coupler. At the end of his remarks Mr. Mose ley described the difficulty of making road man is not only an employee of the company he serves, but in a measure a public servant. The suspension of his functions means a general interruption of traffic, suspension of business and sometimes the cutting off of a whole community from its source of supply. He referred to an occasion where a railroad strike in Scotland had resulted in the actual starvation of a thousand people, and declared that a railroad strike in this country of sufficient magnitude might starve all of the east, all of the west or all of the south. - Washington

A. F. of L. Per Capita Tax.

President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor has issued the following important notice:

Through mischievousness or error a false statement has been circulated regarding the action of the Kansas City convention of the American Federation of Labor in reference to the per capita tax to be paid. The facts are as follows:

First.—The per capita tax of national and international trade unions and brotherhoods is the same as for the past year-that is, one-third of a cent per member per month.

Second. - For central labor unions, trades assemblies and state federations the payment of $10 for representation by delegates has been abolished, and these bodies are required to pay $10 per the actual situation than that made by will be given from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M. annum where the membership is Senator Platt of New York, the first Music will also be continuous, the St. above that figure the annual tax is $20.

> Third.—For federal labor unions and local trade unions unattached to any national or international union or The changes in these matters go into effect Feb. 1.

From the above it will be seen that in the case of affiliated national, international unions and brotherhoods and central bodies the tax has not been increased. The increase in the tax for federal labor unions and local trade unions is based upon a twofold purpose-(a) that greater work can be performed in their interest, (b) to facilitate the work of the formation of national trade anions from among their number, and thus place them in the better position where they will enjoy the autonomy, independence and protection in the interests of their members to a larger de-

IN GREEN CATHEDRAL AISLES.

Within the green cathedral aisles The winds are whispering 'mong the And nature's face is wreathed in smiles. The sunlight in mosaic weaves
A gorgeous pattern 'neath our feet, And summer days are fair and sweet. No pride or pomp in Mammon's piles Can match these old cathedral aisles.

The birds are chanting songs of praise, And music murmurs in the trees For in these quiet woodland ways The choristers are birds and bees;
The flowers with incense fill the air,
And nature's priests her vestments wear. In forest, free from human guiles, Are rear'd these grand cathedral aisles.

The city teems with restless life, And tapering steeples bear the cross-A symbol of the Christian's strife Through all the years of gain and loss. So ever upward point the trees And wave their plumes in every breeze, To lure the wanderer miles and miles Within the green cathedral aisles.

ILLEGAL PRIZES.

One morning in May, 1804, a small brig named the Harrington, commanded by Mr. William Campbell, sailed out between Sydney heads before a stiff westerly breeze bound to the island of Masafuera, in the South Pacific, to procure sealskins. Although so small, the vessel carried a crew of about five and twenty men and, being a letter of marque, was armed in the usual manner of the Australian whalers and south sea traders of those days-half a dozen 9 pounders and plenty of muskets and cutlasses. The Harrington had for some time been employed by her owners-Chace & Co. of Madras-in trading between Madras, the South American ports and Sydney. On the last occasion of his leaving Madras Campbell had taken care to provide himself with a letter of marque from the presidency of Fort St. George against France and Holland.

The result of the sealing expedition was fairly successful, but Campbell himself was not satisfied. At least he found he was not satisfied when he one day fell in with an American whaleship, the captain of which told him that war had been declared between England and Spain. How the American captain had learned the news Campbell did not inquire. He quickly returned on board the Harrington, held a brief consultation with his mate, and altered the ship's course from west by north for Sydney to due east for the South American coast.

"I don't want to waste much time," two. We are pretty sure to pick up something.

The mate concurred, so did the crew, and a week later Campbell did pick up something-to wit, two Spanish prizes, From the Sydney Gazette we learn that the merchantman was "named St. Francisco and St. Paulo. She was being convoyed by the cruiser, which was named the Estremina, commanded by Don Antonio Jose del Campo, ensign in the Spanish navy, out of the ports of Coquimbo and Caldera on the coast of

In spite of his long name and title and the traditional bravery of his race the don does not shine to advantage in this affair, for as soon as the plucky little Harrington bore down upon him and his convoy he put his helm down and steered for the shore, then but a few miles distant. Campbell, burning to bring him to, crowded on all sail in pursuit, but was unable to prevent both the Estremina-a brig of four guns-and the convoy from running ashore. Then, setting fire to both vessels, Don Antonio and his gallant men ran away inland with great unanimity.

But the Harrington was so close that Campbell, lowering his boats, soon boarded both ships, and his men extinguished the flames before any material damage was done, and in a few hours he had succeeded in floating both vessels again. After putting prize crews on board, the industrious Campbell went on shore to see if there was anything else "worth picking up," and discovered a quantity of copper bars—a very valuable commodity. These he secured without firing a shot, and then he and his merry men said goodby to the Spaniards, and with the two prizes in company set sail for Sydney, highly pleased at the result of their adventure.

In due course the Harrington sailed into Port Jackson, but the level headed Scotch captain came in alone—the prizes were not visible. The following day he was requested by Governor King to produce his log, and appeared greatly shocked when the irate governor told him that he had committed a breach of neutrality. War with Spain was not declared until Dec. 12, 1804, and it was not till January, 1805, that the British government granted a letter of marque to any ship, and yet here was this daring merchant skipper committing an act of war on his own account in Oc-

Now, singular to relate, Campbell had only been doing on a very minor scale the same thing as had been done by the orders of the British cabinet on a very large scale in the same fashion in another part of the world, though, of course, neither he nor the angry governor knew it. The incident is a notable one in naval story: Admiral Cornwallis (the government having at last Spain, and the energetic Pitt having succeeded the peaceful Addington) was directed to dispatch some frigates to intercept and detain until further orders the Spanish treasure squadron on its way from Montevideo to Cadiz. The Indefatigable, 44, the Lively, 38, Medusa, 40, and Amphion, 40 guns, were sent away as quickly as possible, and, cruising near Cape St. Vincent, fell in with the Spanish fleet on Oct. 5 and ordered them to bring to. Of course the Spanish admiral (Bustamente) would not submit to be detained and cleared for action. The batZOUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

case had been considered without calling upon him to be present. This, as a matter of fact, was correct, for while some of his sailors gave evidence at the inquiry he was not allowed to meet them in open court. His protest is very properly worded, and he undoubtedly has the best of the argument: "I was not apprised of the intention of the governor to hold an inquiry. Such method is irregular and calculated to prejudice my case. No adverse evidence should be taken without giving me an opportunity to refute it. Further, the detention of my ship is a serious loss to my owners, who will have no redress if even later on my innocence is proved, and my commission in the East India company's service makes me answerable to them for any improper conduct. Anyhow, according to British jurisprudence, you ought to hold me innocent until you can prove the contrary. Yet you seize my ship." King curtly answered that an East India company's commission did not awakened to the veiled hostility of authorize people to seize the vessels of friendly powers; that there was no evidence of war existing between England and Spain, and even if war did exist, since the Harrington had no proper letter of marque, the prizes must become a droit of admiralty. Poor Campbell had to submit, though he manfully resented King's action, but the latter was acting conscientiously. So when Campbell offered substantial security and some leading Sydney merchants backed him with money Governor King consented to the Harrington's cargo being discharged and to her captain proceeding on his voyage to Madtle lasted barely 20 minutes and result- ras. But, alas for Campbell, just as the ed in the blowing up of one Spanish affair was on the point of being settled ship and the capture of the rest. The in this way the San Francisco v San English fleet lost two men killed and Paulo and Estremina were discovered half a dozen wounded. The Spaniards hovering about the coast of New South lost nearly the whole of one ship's Wales, apparently waiting for Campcompany, besides about 100 killed and bell. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOM, Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 5-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. TOPIC.—Idle in the vineyard.—Math. xx, 1-16.

The parable contained in this passage is called "The Laborers In the Vineyard." It refers to laborers rather than to idlers, because the idlers became laborers the moment they had the opportunity. The parable is difficult of explanation, both because it is unnatural and because it seems to contain an injustice. Rightly understood, it, however, has no injustice.

1. This parable contains a lesson for workers. The story is unique. A householder employs laborers at different hours of the day, and when the day's work is done he pays all the same wages. The first comers complain, but he silences them by telling them that he has paid them all that he promised to pay them and that he had a right to do what he pleased with his own. Without going into details the point of the parable lies in this fact, the first laborers had been hired for pay, they had made a contract to work so long a time for so much wages, and they received these wages. The later laborers were told to go to work, and what was right they would be paid. They did so, trusting to the generosity of the householder, and they were not disappointed. The occasion of the parable proves this interpretation of it to be correct. It was spoken in answer to Peter's question, "What shall we have?" for having left all to follow Christ. He tells them that they shall be amply repaid, but at the same time warns them against working only for hire. There are two classes of Christian workers, those who labor for reward and those who labor for love to the Master, willing to leave the question of reward entirely in Hishands. It is evident to all that the latter will receive the better reward. To men they may not seem to do as much as those who work for wages, but God judges not so much by the apparent amount of work done as by the motive back of it. With God at least the motive determines the reward. Every laborer will be rewarded for work done, but he is most and best rewarded who without thought of reward unselfishly gives his life to Christ out of gratitude and love to Christ for His love and sacrifice.

2. This parable contains a lesson for idlers. No premium is placed upon idleness in this parable. The idle went to work as soon as they had the opportunity to do so. There is no intimation here that we may put off till late in life service for Christ and then be rewarded as fully as those who consecrate themselves to Christ at an early age. The periods the different periods in a man's life. Opportunity is the only time factor to be considered. The actions of these la borers in seizing the first opportunity for service and their subsequent reward should be an example and inspiration to us to redeem the time, to per form faithfully each duty to Christ, that opportunity places before us.

Step after step he advanced, nearing the point of safety, till at length, just where one step more would have brought his head above water, his feet stuck fast in the mire and he was drowned, and there, bolt upright, within a single step of deliverance, he was found by the neighbors, almost saved, but altogether lost. Such is the position of the almost Christian-almost saved, but altogether lost. - American Friend.

An Educational Force.

In a word, religion is the best educational force, because it deals with the deepest and most potent elements of human nature. It furnishes the noblest impulses toward progress; it approves the wisest methods of study; it directs culture toward practical service, and it does all this in the spirit of unselfish, loving devotion to both God and man. A culture which is hostile or only indifferent to religion is both imperfect and misleading. - Congregationalist.

Senatorial Controversy Over Peace Treaty Reaches Acute Stage.

Both Sides Express Determination Not to Yield.

Another Long and Exciting Executive Session

Washington, Feb. 4.-For more than five hours yesterday the senate listened to arguments in opposition to expansion the treaty of peace. The speakers were Mr. Money (Miss.) and Mr. Dantel (Va.), The former's address was comparatively brief, as it did not enter into the constitutional phases of the He vigorously antagonized

Let her tread with sure and steady step along her own highways, respecting master and Let her to the temper of expansion today say, as he who stood upon the mount said, when the glories of the earth were stretched before him: "Get thee behind me, satan.'

The controversy in the senate over the vote upon the various resolutions, interpretative of the peace treaty, took an acute turn in the executive session. The opposition to a vote first came from the theory that it could be ratified without compromise. Those who were then a head. apparently wiling that a vote should be taken held an opposite view yesterday, and absolutely refused to agree to

Senator Cockrell gave notice that he would re-Bist any effort for a vote upon the resolutions up to 3 o'clock Monday, when the Vote on the treaty must be taken.

The friends of the treaty declared that they were acting in perfect good faith. They cited that all the time of the senate for the past week had been occupied in performing duties under the orders or consent of the senate, and that there had not within that period been a time when the vote could have been taken. WELL, MILES, WHAT IS IT?"

Along with his early schooling he must have read the clause in the Declaration of Independence that runs to the effect that all men are free and equal, and he bore himself accordingly.

"The morning after he was detailed General Miles was holding a consultation at headquarters with some of the big officers of his command. The general called for an orderly to run an unimportant errand, and the gentleman from Wisconsin sauntered in, made a pass at his hat with his left hand for a salute and ejaculated:

"'Well, Miles, what is it?" "If the Spaniards had dropped a shell in our midst it would have hardly surprised us more. At first General Miles face grew black as thunder, and then his scowl changed to a quizzical smile. "'Don't call me Miles. Call me Nelse

The Silk Petticoat.

The crusade against the dust laden silk petticoat on the street increases daily. It is a good idea and one that has been adopted by some excellent dressers to build a sheath top of satin part of our street petticoat and to this have ready to button on one of several sets of deep flounces of lawn and lace, the color of the satin-blue, coral, green, violet-thoroughly wash materials they are, so that they can be freshened as often as is necessary for daintiness. Each flounce is double, the under one simply a circular with a narrow plaiting, the upper one accordion plaited and lace trimmed.

Hopelessly Bad Form.

Women should not be tempted by the display of fancy kid gloves to be seen in many shops. They are hopelessly bad form. What woman of exquisite taste would dream of donning bright Bent, and Miss Coralyn Lang, were red, blue or green kids or would be caught wearing a pair of white suedes embroidered elaborately in pink or blue Parisians are the best gloved women in the world, and the style of wearing values can be obtained for five cents suede gloves in white and delicate each at the office of publication. shades of tans, grays and browns pre-O. Another account says:

The clash came at 8:45 Saturday evening, when three daring Filipinos darted past the Neiraska regiment's pickets at Santa Mera, but returned when challenged. They repeated the experiment without drawing the sentries' fire, but the third time Corporal Greely challenged the Filipinos and then fired, killing one of them and wounding another. Almost immediately afterwards the Filipino line, from Calvocan to Santa Mesa, commended a fusilade, which was in-effectual. The Nebraska, Montana and North Dakota outposts replied vigorously, and held their ground until reinforcements arrived.

The Filipinos, in the meantime, concentrated at three points, Calvocan, Gagalangin and Santa Mesa.

At about 1 o'clock the Filipinos opened a hot fire from all three places simultaneously. This was supplemented by the fire of two seige guns at Balik-Balik and by advancing their skirmishers at Pace and Panaacan.

The Americans responded with a terrific fire, but owing to the darkness they were unable to determine its effect. The Utah light battery finally suceeded in silencing the native battery. The Third artillery also did good work on the extreme left. The engagement lasted over an hour.

The United States cruiser Charleston and the gunboat Concord, stationed off Malabon, opened fire from their secondary batteries on the Filipinos' position at Calvocan, and kept it up vigorously.

London Press Comment.

London, Feb. 6.—The Times, commenting editorially upon the dispatches from Manlia, says: The insurgent attack was apparently premeditated, and the presumption is that Aguinaldo is responsible for the bloodshed. The really important point is whether the attack is or is not the beginning of an organized attempt to throw off American rule. We imagine the news will strengthen the determination of America to take up the "white man's burden."

The Daily Graphic says: By this act of folly, the insurgents have not only courted defeat, but have regularized the position of the Americans in the archipelago, and have probably obtained for President McKinley a free hand in the expansion policy, which the senate has seemed reluctant to give

The Daily Chronicle says: The Filipinos have helped to assure the ratification of the peace treaty. The Standard says: The paucity of

In opposition to the order authorizing Quincy to exceed her debt limit $150,-000 for street improvements, the comments of Representative Hayes of the Committee on Cities of the Legislature are timely. He says, "Municipal experimenting has cost enormous amounts of money, until at the present time the tax rate in cities is extremely high, the debt limit is reached, and municipalities are continually applying to the legislature for permission to raise money outside of the debt limit, result ing in depreciation of real estate, high rents, and, consequently, making it harder for the masses to live in comfortable homes. The remedy has been suggested by some of still further reducing the debt limit and compelling municipal governments to live within

Opinion of Foreigners on the Present Struggle.

Filipinos Lost Sympathy by Aggressive Attitude.

Otis Has Substantial Backing In Dewey's Large Fleet.

Belief That Agoncillo Has Been Connected With the Outbreak.

Washington, Feb. 6.-At the various foreign embassies and legations the news of an outbreak at Manila aroused the keenest interest, and it was discussed in all its international bearings. At the British, Franch and other embassies most directly interested no official word had been received, and the press advices were being relied on for information. These were sufficient to satisfy diplomatic officials that a very grave situation was presented. In the main, however, the foreign opinion was optimistic as to the ability of the United States to successfully cope with this insurrection, although one eminent diplomatic official regarded it as foreshadowing a series of colonial conflicts.

As to its international bearings, a leading member of the diplomatic corps said the outbreak made two things quite clear, namely, that no foreign power could or would intervene or exert any influence in the Philippines; and second, that foreign governments would now recognize in this overt act of the Filipinos that the United States was justified | was effected more than 10 days ago and in using strong repressive measures. So long as the Filipinos remained in a passive attitude of resistence it was pointed out there might be some justfication for foreign sympathy with them; but if this extension of the lines in certain direcadvanced to an aggressive attitude and the killing of American soldiers, this official expressed the belief that foreign governments would take the view always taken under such circumstances, that an onslaught leading to the killing of the citizens of a country called for the most summary redress. The idea that the holds good in the absence of the Filipinos could hope for recognition from tion of the treaty, he lacked any foreign power was dismissed ..

Diplomats took a lively interest in the news, realizing that the government of the United States will call upon them very early to see to it that no aid of any sort is rendered to the Filipinos, and that no filibustering expeditions shall leave their soil with munitions of war or supin light amounts in plies for the insurgents. Their strong point is their knowledge of the country and a certain fanatical bravery in onslaught that would be formidable to a volunteer force not well trained to stand fire. Like the Cubans, they rely too much on a swordlike weapon corresponding to the machete, a weapon of little value against long range rifles.

Altogether, the war department of ficials have not the slightest doubt o General Otis' ability to hold his position indefinitely, and the only cause for ap prehension is the fear that by taking to the interior of the country, practically impassible for American troops in the approaching rainy season, a prolonged Indian fighting style campaign may

Besides his soldiers, General Otis has at his back in Manila bay, commanding the city, a veritable rock of Gibraltar in Dewey's fleet. With the vessels he has now and those about to join him Dewey will have 21 ships of various types. Of full fledged warships he now has nine, as follows: The flagship Olympia, the Boston, Baltimore, Charleston, Concord, Monadnock, Monterey, Petrel and the Buffalo. He also has three armed supply ships, which are just as effective as a warship, almost, in attacking troops outside of fortifications and in maintaining the blockade. They are the Culgoa, the Nanshan and the Zafire.

The vessels on the way to join Dewey are the gunboat Helena, now at Colombo the Castine at Gibraltar; the Princeton due at Port Said Tuesday; the Bennington, the Brutus and the Yorktown, probably at Guam, on their way to Manila, the battleship Oregon and the waterboat Iris, at Honolulu. The Solace is about to start any moment from Norfolk for Manila. This leaves out of account the army transports under General Otis' command which could be made of great service.

The fleet cannot operate against troops in the interior, but undoubtedly Dewey immediately will draw a tight cordon of blockading vessels around the island of Luzon and make a special effort absolutely to cut off the insurgents from the supplies and ammunition which they must have to carry on the war.

He is credited by his fellow members of the junta with being in Baltimore, making a social call, accompanied by Captain Morti Burgos, an officer in the Filipino army. Dr. Luna and other members of the junta insist he will return today. They laughed at a report which had spread during the day that he had run away. On the other hand it is known that the secret service officials have Agoncillo under surveillance, wherever he may be. A story which seems to come from a quarter that should be credited states that Agoncillo left at 11:50 Saturday night for New York.

at the Last Moment.

Washington, Feb. 7.-The peace treaty has at last been ratified by the senate. It was an exciting struggle, and the battle was won by only a majority of one vote. The figures stood 57 for ratification and 27 against.

Six members were absent, four Republicans being paired against two Democrats, in accordance with the prosary for ratification.

Following is the treaty vote in detail: Yeas-Aldrich, Allen, Allison, Baker, Burrows, Butler, Carter, Chandler, Clark, Clay, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Elkins, Fairbanks, Faulkner, Foraker, Frye, Gallinger, Gear, Gray, Hanna, Hansbrough, Harris, Hawley, Jones (Nev.), Kenney, Kyle, Lindsay, Lodge, Mantle, Mason, Morgan, Nelson, Penrose, Perkins, Pettus, Platt (Conn.), Platt (N. No vote has been taken in the senate been followed with as close interest as was the vote of yesterday. The anxiety was due not only to the magnitude of the question at issue, but also to the uncertainty which attended the matter up to the last moment. Only the select few knew how Senators McEnery of Louisiana and Jones of Nevada would vote half an hour before their votes were cast. Many of the vast throng which was turned from the galleries after the doors were closed in response to Senator Davis' motion lingered in the corridors, waiting eagerly for the first news from inside. Within the chamber the interest was even more intense. Very few senators left the chamber except those engaged the vote. Postmaster General Smith in the cloak rooms in trying on the one was with the president and was the first side to gain votes for the treaty, and on to congratulate him. Half an hour afterwards it was learned that Senator Mc- ratification of the treaty, Enery had been won over on condition that his declaratory resolution should be at Manila. Senator Jones (Nev.) went over at the last moment.

There was no applause when the result was announced, but many senators heaved a sigh of relief.

In advance of the voting speeches were made by Senators Ross, Money and Fairbanks. Senator Stewart, who had just arrived from his successful campaign in Nevada for re-election, announced during this period of the session that in his entire trip across the continent he had not encountered one man who was opposed to the ratification of the treaty.

Senator Ross read a brief written speech announcing his intention to support the treaty as in the interest of peace. He entered somewhat into the legal questions involved, saying that he saw no obstacle in the way of ratification from that source.

Senator Money reiterated his opposition to the treaty and made a last plea for a modification of the agreement. He asserted that if the friends of the treaty IF YOU WANT SUCCESS IN BUSINESS. | asserted that, if the friends of the freaty had agreed to a modifying resolution it

He expressed the view that doing anything that is necessary to pro the ratification of the treaty would do much to prevent further bloodshed and restore quiet at Manila. At 3 o'clock the vice president interrupted Senator Money, who was then speaking, to announce that the hour had arrived for a vote. But one amendment was offered, that prepared by Senator be necessary just now. He had been act-Vest, placing the Philippines on the same footing as Cuba: in the treaty. senators who were not in their seats that the culminating event had arrived. The call proceeded quietly until the name of Senator McLaurin was announced. He created the first stir by a speech in explanation of his vote for the treaty. This was the initial break in the ranks of the opposition. Mr. McLaurin gave as the reason for his change of position the open hostilities in Manila. He said that the attack upon our troops had brought about a new condition of affairs.

The motion was debated at length, pro and con, but the house by a large majority refused to adopt it, the vote being 54 to 131. The discussion, however, gave several members an oppor tunity to deliver speeches, which had, evidently, been carefully prepared on the main question, whether or not the United States should go into the business of colonizing. The vote was on party lines, only one Republican voting in favor, and two Democrats against. There was little of general interest cor sidered in committee rooms, although the discussion for and against appropriations for the gypsy moth and browntail moth was followed by an audience that crowded the committee room and the small corridor outside. The report of the prison commission occasioned some talk over the effect on state prison approaches of the proposed new raised street over Prison Point railroad crossings. Before the liquor law committee, the prohibitionist leaders argued for a state excise board for the sale of liquors; and there were other minor hearings. Reports were presented in the house of the state board of registration in dentistry, and the superintendent of Lack of Evidence.

Before another meeting of the City Council it is probable that the Com mittee on Cities of the Legislature will give a hearing on the petition of Mayor Keith, asking authority to incur $150,000 debt beyond the debt limit, for widening and constructing highways. The failure of the City Council to pass the order giving the Mayor authority to petition, may be construed to mean that they are not in sympathy with it. Certainly it cannot be claimed that the petition was at the request of the City Council, which is the legislative body of the city government. Whether Mr. Keith, as Mayor of the city, can appear in support of the bill, may be an open question, and the same reason would apply to the City

Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I continued the something was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. 1 am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. General Otis' report of casualties in the Manila fight up to date aggregates 197. Forty-nine officers and men were killed, and 148 wounded.

It is understood that the campaign against the Philippine insurgents is to be prosecuted with vigor. The question was fully discussed at yesterday's cabinet meeting, and the conclusion was reached that before permanent peace or security to life and property could be secured Aguinaldo's forces must be made to lay down their arms, and it is expected that General Otis, in co-operation with Admiral Dewey, will push forward at once and give the insurgents no chance to recover from the defeat of last Sunday.

So far as can be learned no positive instructions have yet been cabled to our commanders at Manila, but it is the ex-It makes cooking so easy that your wife can cook your breakfast in half the pectation of members of the administrafrom Manila, that this course will be pursued. Iloilo is to be occupied at onc by the American naval forces, and it i expected that General Otis will move immediately on Malolos, the insurgent capital, and capture or disperse the socalled Filipino government. The more closely the insurgents are pressed and the more rigorous and determined the campaign, it is said, the sooner may we expect peace.

There was little abatement of interest In the stirring events at Manila exhibited yesterday at the war department. The first feeling of anxiety for the safety of the American forces has given away entirely save in the case of the persona friends and acquaintances of soldiers supposed to be injured, but there was displayed instead the greatest interest in the extent of the loss inflicted upon the insurgents by the American soldiers and sailors.

Officers at the war department who know Otis well declared when the announcement came of the killing, capture or wounding of 4000 men that he unfoubtedly had underestimated the damage inflicted by him, as was his wont, instead of magnifying it in the Spanish

The news of the day free abroad was found in the casualty list sent by Otis and in the concise and excellent descrip tion by him of the results of the engage ment of Saturday night and Sunday The officials say that nothing more ca be expected from him on this point unt he has had an opportunity to forward mail report, giving in detail all the his tory of the fighting. Naturally then was a great deal of speculation as to th future conduct of affairs by Otis, but to the peace treaty.

Many Important Suggestions In Commissioner Porter's Official Report.

Washington, Feb. 8.-Assistant Secretary of War Meiklejohn has given out for publication an abstract of the report recently made by Special Commissioner Porter to the secretary of the treasury on the commercial and inrustrial conditions of Cuba. Mr. Porter says that in the province of Santiago may be seen in full operation the work which the United States has been impelled to undertake. Here, too, may be studied the character of the forces upon which this country must rely in the work of reconstruction. The machinery of government, he says, is running with a fair degree of smoothness, and the officials are masters of the

It is interesting to note how the States voted on the peace treaty. It will be remembered that the actual vote was 57 to 27 in favor of the treaty. Including pairs, there were 61 senators in favor and 29 opposed. By states the vote was 22 to 6 in favor, there being 17 states where the delegations were divided. We were sorry to see Massachusetts "on the fence" on this important measure, and feel that our venerable and respected senior senator did not represent his constituency. Where both senators from a State voted in favor of the treaty, the State is classed in the summary below as "for" the treaty, while where the two were "against" the State is put in that column. All others are on the fence:

Type Writers

Clear, legible, neat correspondence always commands the careful attention of those you address, saves errors, and it is an acknowledged fact that all things being equal, a type written letter will receive more consideration in the placing of orders than the conventional pen written letter.

When syndicates cease to control the sale of typewriters, prices will be lower to the buying public. Until then we can save you a neat little sum on syndicate prices. Keep this up your sleeve, and order your typewriters through us. Write or telephone for information.

A red-hot iron would burn the clothes, and so will common soap. Cheap common soaps ruin the clothes more slowly, but just as surely. Fairy Soap is a safe soap. It cleanses without harming even rich cambrics, gauzy laces and other fabrics of fine texture and delicate color. It will not burn, rot and weaken the threads as common soap does, and is more economical than cheaper soaps as it lasts longer.

is made of pure vegetable oil, contains no coloring matter, no impurities, so that it is perfectly harmless to the tenderest skin. It is an ideal soap for toilet, bath and fine laundry purposes.

One of the events of the year among hall. The association extended an invitation to the members of the Old Colony Association, and to the merchants of the city generally " "fty to sixty signified their intention to attend. The storm, however, interfered with the plans of grocers in Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham and Rockland, and Quincy as well. When it was seen that many would be absent, a messenger was dispatched to the rooms of the Granite City club and the Quincy club, and an invitation extended to all present, and the members generally accepted. So it was a representative gathering of merchants which assembled around the festive boards and did justice to the following menu spread by A. E. Nash:

ROASTS Roast Turkey, Cranberry Sauce. Roast Chicken. Roast Duck, Wine Jelly. Saratoga Potatoes. French Peas. SALADS:

In military prisons an offender is some-times sentenced to carry cannon balls from one place to another and pile them up all day long. That is all. Perhaps it does not seem very terrible but it soon wears his life out. It is practically a death sentence, and he knows it; he would rather be shot. Many a sick man feels the same way about the burden of disease that he is lugging back and forth from day to day. He would as soon be down with a mortal disease. It

To the Honorable the Justices of the Superior Court, holden at Dedham, within and for our County of Norfolk.

RESPECTFULLY libels and represents EMILY E. FITZGERALD, of Quincy in our County of Norfolk aforesaid, that she was lawfully married to Edmund Fitzgerald now of New York City in the State of New York, on the twenty-eighth day of April A. D. 1890, and that thereafterwards your libellant 1890, and that thereafterwards your libellant and the said libellee lived together as husband and wife in this Commonwealth to wit: at Boston in our County of Suffolk, and at Hyde Park in said County of Norfolk; that your libellant has always been faithful to her marriage yows and obligations, but said Edmund Fitzgerald being wholly regardless of the same at said Hyde Park on divers occasions has cruelly and abusively treated her, and that being of sufficient ability he grossly and wantonly and cruelly refuses and neglects to provide suitable maintenance for her. And said libellee has utterly deserted her, the said libellant, and said desertion has continued for three consecutive years next prior to the filing of this libel.

Wherefore your libellant prays that a divorce from the bonds of matrimony may be decreed between your libellant and said libellee, and that your libellant may be allowed to resume her maiden name of Emily E. Waldron, and that such other orders and decrees may be the product of the product o made in the premises as to your Honorable Court may seem meet and proper. Dated this seventeenth day of December,

EMILY E. FITZGERALD.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

SUPERIOR COURT. NORFOLK, SS. ON the foregoing Libel it is ORDERED that the Libellant give notice to the said EDMUND FITZGERALD, the Libellee, to appear before the Justices of this Court, to be holden at Dedham, within and for said County, on the First Monday of MARCH next, by causing an attested copy of said Libel, and of this order thereon, to be published once in a to some of the abutters, and they week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper printed at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, the last publication to be fourteen days at least before the said first Monday of March next; and further, by sending through the mail, as soon as may be, by a registered letter addressed to the last known residence of the said Edmund Fitzgerald an attested copy of said Libel and of this order thereon, that the said Edmund Fitzgerald may then and there show cause why the prayer of said Libel should not be granted.

By the Court February 8, 1899. LOUIS A. COOK. Clerk. A true copy of said Libel, and of the Order ATTEST.

The publication of the land values as determined by the Assessors of 1898, which was commenced in the Ledger last August and continued almost daily, is nearly completed. Considerable interest has been taken by the taxpayers, and the Ledger feels repaid by its largely increased daily circulation for the time and expense required. Of late there has been some inquiry as to the value of houses, and there has been criticism upon the high valuation. Some reductions are likely this year, and next fall the Ledger may attempt to publish in instalments the 'house values.''

Some of the clergymen of the city who participated in the dedication of the new United Presbyterian church last Sunday have admitted to the Ledger that they departed from their usual Sunday talks but they found that church people enjoyed a little spice as well as other people. There would be larger congregations in all of the churches if the sermons were more entertaining.

HIS TOP NOTE.

Miss Mary Emerson was acknowledged to be the prettiest girl in Bradford.

Among the many who sighed for her were two who seemed so far advanced in the court they paid that they might be called suitors. One, Charley Norton, was toward the front because he deserved to be there, for he was a good fellow, bright and earnest, albeit guilty of harmless vanities, not to say the self conceit with which some people charged him. His one dangerous rival was the concert master of the Bradford orchestra, Theodore Schreiner. Schreiner's apparent lead in the race for Miss Emerson's affections was due wholly to his boundless assurance. The proof of this came to him with unpleasant clearness on the day when he proposed, only to be rejected. Mary let him understand distinctly that she was promised to Charley Norton and that her accepted lover had her entire affection and trust.

For a day or two Schreiner was mo rose and inclined, so he said, to suicide. Then came the annual charity concert, for which a long programme had been arranged. Norton, who was a popular fellow and a good singer, was down for a song, and the piece he had chosen was one of his own compositions. As manager of the enterprise I had encouraged him to sing the thing. I hadn't heard it and to tell the truth, cared very little whether or not it was meritorious. It struck me simply as a good feature to advertise a song by a popular local composer, "written for the occawould be the hit of the evening success with that fetching top note.

"I hope so," he said good naturedly, "for if they want a higher note than that they will be disappointed. It's my limit. I couldn't sing a half tone higher to save my life.

Evening came and there was a crowdthree arias by important talent, and a violin solo by Schreiner before it came Norton's turn. Norton was in the greenby Gustave Mollenhauer, the first clar- see your copy inet of the orchestra. Mollenhauer Mollenhauer stopped abruptly, for awful visions of the break in his voice, the ridiculous squeak that would occur pitch set by Schreiner, the laughter of the audience, the mortification, but, above all, the exhibition of himself before pretty Mary Emerson in the proscenium box.

"Can't it be stopped?" he gasped. Mollenhauer shook his head. "I tried to say something," he answered, "but the conductor called me down for making a noise. The thing wasn't cooked up till after the men got on the stage.

You'll have to sing some other note." "And ruin the climax? It won't do! It would spoil the song! But, confound it, what can I do?"

For a moment Mollenhauer was in as great despair as Charley was. Then his Schreiner, who was sawing away deface lightened. "Have you another copy of the song?"

he asked. Charley shook his head "How many measures is it from the

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Tople For the Week Beginning Feb. 12-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.-The joy in finding the lost.-Luke

The parables of the lost sheep and the lost coin illustrate the fact that the mission of Christ in the world was to seek and to save the lost. Incidentally Christ speaks of the joy in finding the lost. When the shepherd found the lost theep, "he layeth it on his shoulders rejoicing, and when he cometh home he calleth his friends and neighbors together, saying, Rejoice with me, for I have found my sheep, which was lost." The woman who found a coin which she had lost had a similar experience. She was filled with joy, and called in her friends and neighbors to rejoice with her.

That there is joy in finding that which has been lost is indisputable. The joy increases with the value of that which is lost. Material things of value lost and found bring great joy to the owners. The finding of a lost child will thrill an entire community with enthusiastic joy. How much more does it stand to reason that there would be joy in finding a lost soul, worth more in value than a world!

The Scripture constantly bears testimony to the joy in finding the lost. The disciples of Christ, sent out two by two to preach the gospel, returned after a successful itineracy with great joy because of their success. The Acts of the Apostles frequently record the fact that the apostles found great joy in their work. Paul writes to the Thessalonians, "For what thanks can we render again unto God for all the joy wherewith we joy for your sakes before the Lord?" His joy was so great in having led the Thessalonians to Christ that he could not find language sufficiently strong to thank God for it. The beloved John says, "Greater joy have I none than to hear of my children (those he had led to Christ) walking in the truth." The joy of leading them into the truth is evidently also embraced in this joy. All Christian ministers and Christian workers can testify of the joy in saving the lost. And not only is there joy on earth for this cause, but also in heaven. "There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

There are many characteristics of this joy. It is the joy of reconciliation. How it fills our hearts with joy to be able to reconcile two friends who have been estranged, and especially so if they are closely related! What joy, then, in bringing home a lost son or daughter of God and having both reconciled by the the joy of finding a lost soul because ness that we have had something to do

It is the soul on fire which has given it its aggressive force from the beginning. It is not so much the man of intellect who moves the masses as the man of heart. Fervency of spirit is the secret of pulpit success. Paul was thought to be mad because of his Christian fervor. More of his madness is necessary in our day if we would properly push the kingdom of our Lord far and near .- Presbyterian.

Old Glory Now Fleats Over the City of Caloocan.

Rattling Fire of Enemy Failed to Dampen Our Men's Ardor.

Otis Will Not Recognize Aguinaldo as the Head of "Philippine Republic."

Manila, Feb. 11.-Caloocan is now included in the territory occupied by the United States troops.

The victory of yesterday afternoon was fully as decisive as that of Sunday last. Once more the Filipino insurgents ventured to give battle to the forces under General Otis, but they were scattered by the deadly American fire like chaff before the wind.

The fighting lasted three hours, and during a part of the time it was a handto-hand conflict, in which the spears of the natives were opposed to the bayonets of the American troops.

The monitor Monadnock and the gunboat Concord began the attack upon the town at 2:30 o'clock, throwing a shower of shells, which did a great deal of damage. Then the Sixth artillery and the Utah battery opened fire on the rebel entrenchments, and at 4 o'clock the entire brigade, under command of Brigadier General Harrison G. Otis, with the exception of the Tenth Pennsylvania infantry, which was held in reserve, began to advance in the following order from left to right: The Twentieth Kansas infantry, First Montana infantry and the Third artillery, the Twentieth Kansas and First Montana being supported by the First Idaho infantry, and the Third artillery by the Fourth cavalry. The insurgents kept up a rattling fire upon our lines, but the Americans troops advanced through the woods on the left and across an, open field on the right without stopping, firing only when they reached the enemy's entrenchments.

In the meantime a company of the First Montana infantry, under command of Major Bell, who volunteered this service, executed a neat right flank move ment, arriving at the enemy's left flank back into the town. Cheering like madmen, the Americans rushed over the enemy's trenches, completely routing the rebels, who scattered like sheep and fled toward the north. The residence of an Englishman named Higgins was the only house in the town that had a flagstaff. This was borrowed for the occasion and the Stars and Stripes were run up amid tremendous cheers. As the Twentieth Kansas and First Montana regiments entered the town from the south they set purpose of firing upon the rear of our American loss was slight. Brigadier General H. G. Otis held the extreme left of the American line from the bay near Calocoan. The regiments on the line and in support were the Twentieth Kansas, Colonel Funston, 11 companies; First Montana, Colonel Kerster, nine companies; Third artillery, Major Kobbe, four batteries as infantry; and the Tenth Pennsylvania. Colonel Hawkins, four companies. Two companies of the Tenth Pennsylvania were behind the walls of the De La Loma churchyard. Across the ravine from the Montana regiment was Captain Jensen's company holding the stone fort Supporting Grant's battery of four Utah guns. A fifth gun was to the left, and on the railroad, supporting the Kansas troops. To reach this position the brigade had advanced four times since Saturday in a series of brilliant combats on different parts of the line of action, especially so on the Fourth, Fifth and

When the prominent natives visited General Otis the other day, for the purpose of making overtures for a settle. ment of the trouble, they were received by General Otis, but his manner was chilling. The deputation was talkative and dwelt upon the situation from the native viewpoint, but it had absolutely nothing to offer as a basis for a settlement. It pressed General Otis for a declaration of some kind as to what the natives must concede in order to secure peace, but his answer dashed all hopes of obtaining any terms that would prove beneficial to the enemy. "Tell Aguinaldo," General Otio said, "that I have no message for him," and this ended the interview. Those who know General Otis construe this as meaning that if Aguinaldo wants to end the trouble for which he alone is responsible he will have to treat personally with General Otis and make complete submission. He will never be recognized as the head of the so-called Philippine republic, and must submit simply as an armed rebel. One of the members of the deputation was General Arguelles, who was a member of the native commission which met conjointly with an American commission last month to consider means of clearing the political atmosphere here, but whose efforts were without result.

Word From Otis.

Washington, Feb. 11.—General Otis yesterday gave notice to the war department tha he had been obliged to buy a large number of horses to supply the transportation needed, owing to the length of the American lines. These horses are the little native Philippine ponies, which, it is said at the war department, have been found to be the best animal for pack and draft purposes that can be secured. Some big American horses have been taken to the islands by the troops, but they have sickened and died. General Otis seports that he has mounted several troops of cavalry on the native ponies with good results. The following dispatch from General Otis was received last night:

Manila, Feb. 10. Adjutant General: Insurgents collected considerable force between Manila and Caloocan, where Aguinaldo is reported to be and threatened attack and uprising in city. This afternoon swung left of McArthur's division, which is north of Pasig river, into Caloocan, driving enemy easy. Our left now at Calcoocan. Everything at Camp Is Frozen

With Co. K, 5th Mass. Camp Wetherill,

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 9. February 9.

We must still remind our Massachusetts friends that our abode is in the "Sunny South." It is so warm today that the thermometer registers just 15 degrees above zero, with a high wind blowing so hard that it carries the fine gravel and stones ahead with terrific force. The water mains that are laid made an excellent skating rink for the boys. Everything is froze up stiff.

Yesterday, we had a snow storm leaving behind about two inches of snow, and the appearance of a northern winter.

With all these joyful pleasures of camp life we are told that our stay is to be in this camp until mustered out. This we assure the readers is very encouraging. We still hold on to the fact, that the month of April will see the 5th mustered out of the United States' service.

The K boys will be so hardened when they return home, after living in tents this inclement weather, that they will not think anything of sleeping out in the cold, some nights. The boys say that when once more they strike their cosy little beds, it will be a long day before they leave the old home stead again. This is a fine experience for the young men of Quincy, Braintree and the surrounding towns and these incidents will never be forgot.

From information ascertained at the 2d Division Hospital, Corporal Gannon is improving steadily, and Private Roberts is now able to sit up. We hope to see our comrades back in the ranks when health permits. Mr. Gannon, brother of Corporal Gannon, who would give a reward to find out the similar nature have been recently brother, returned to Massachusetts

Through the wet and stormy weather no dress parades have been held, that is since last Friday. Guard mount has not been put through since last Monday. The commands could not be heard, the wind howled so. It made it necessary to postpone all ceremonies.

Corporal Dean and his corps of cooks find it a difficult task to prepare the boys' mess these stormy days, for a high wind, cold atmosphere, and wet wood make the situation very uncomfortable for the culinary department.

K company still holds the record in having the boy's meals ready on time. One company quite recently did not serve breakfast until 10 o'clock, the cause being that their cook stack had been flooded out, extinguishing their fire. When a rain or snow storm strikes here it strikes with terrific force.

A SIGNIFICANT STORY

Told to Newspaper Men by Cornish Denied on the Stand.

Subsequently Admitted That He Was "Rattled"

Molineaux Declares to District Attorney That He Is Absolutely Innocent.

New York, Feb. 11.-Harry Cornish yesterday, testifying before the coroner's jury, said that he suspected Roland B. Molineux of sending him the poison which caused the death of Mrs. Adams, and gave as his reason for thinking so the fact that Molineux was the only man with whom he had ever had any serious trouble, and was what he termed half chemist, that is a person whose knowledge of chemistry was not complete. This was suggested to him, he said, by John H. Yokum, a chemist, who examined the glass from which Mrs. Adams drank before the police got it, and who, noting the presence of crystals in the bottom, said that a thorough chemist would have prepared the stuff so that no sediment would remain.

ROLAND B. MOLINEUX.

Cornish was again somewhat reticent and equivocal in his answers to questions put to him by the assistant district attorney, and in one instance, at least, occasioned a good deal of surprise. In an interview with a number of newspaper representatives previous to the commencement of the examination Cornish, when asked if he knew Mrs. Molineux and if she could have any connection with the case, said that he wished the assistant district attorney would ask him that question on the stand. "A man is supposed to perjure himself for a woman," said Cornish, "but I am here to tell the truth if they ask me such a question."

This seemed a significant statement, but when Assistant District Attorney Osporne put that very question, Cornish replied: "I never saw Mrs. Molineux to made, the time largely being occupied know, her and never saw her when she was Blanche Chesebrough.' "Didn't you?" asked Osborne, "say to two men this morning, when asked if you knew Mrs. Molineux, that you wished I would ask you that question, and although some men would perjure themselves, you would tell the truth Cornish denied this at first, but later he admitted that he might have said it, as he had said so many things, and that he was very much rattled at the time.

Cornish gave way on the stand temporarily to Molineux, who took his place there after a wrangle between Assistant District Attorney Osborne and Barlow S. Weeks, Molineux's counsel. Mr. Weeks objected on the ground that Molineux had not been properly subpoenaed, and during the course of the pared, which Molineux accepted, being due share of the $3,000,000 which the apparently a very willing witness. Washington, Feb. 11.-The army appropriation bill was completed by the house committee on military affairs and by dint of pretty severe cutting of nu- lating the national banking laws and merous items it was brought down to $79,034,372. It is framed on the basis of an army of about 100,000 men, and contemplates the enactment of the Hull bill for the increase of the army or the retention of volunteers and regulars up to that number. Specific provision is ade for nine major generals and 12 brigadier generals.

ATMOSPHERIC CHANGES Bave Had Some Effect Upon Business

New York, Feb. 11.-Bradstreet's says Meteorological conditions have occupied first place in general trade and distribution this week. Reports come of severe or stormy weather, exercising an appreciable effect on distributive trade and particularly upon the growing business in spring goods. That some favorable effects are likely to flow from the atmospheric changes of the week is evidenced by reports of improved distribu tion at retail of heavy winter goods while the effect on spring trade appears to be chiefly regarded as one of retardation rather than of positive injury. In leading staples the strength of prices i still a feature, all the gains made in January being sustained, if not further improved. Some reflection of the cold wave is found in the advance in wheat, showing an inclination to concede some damage to the winter wheat crop. The strength of cotton, while to some extent based on smaller receipts and a reduction of the usual "winter" crop, appears mainly due to the cheerful tone of the cotton goods market and the strength of demand and price manifested by those staples at home and abroad.

In aggressive strength, alike of demand and price, however, iron and steel are easily first this week, and the list of advances reported this week is almost a rollcall of that industry's products. Hides are firm, and some activity and advance in leather are reported. A fair trade is doing in wool, and a rather better tone is reported in the woolen goods market.

Bank clearings indicate some quieting down of speculation, but totals are still very large, aggregating $1,826,218,000 for the week, a decrease of 5.3 percent from last week, but an increase of 34 percent over this week last year, a gain of 70 percent over 1897, of 86.7 percent over 1893 and 105 percent over 1894.

Business failures in the United States number only 193 this week, against 207 last week, 278 in this week a year ago 301 in 1897, 381 in 1896 and 296 in 1895.

In Congress.

Washington, Feb. 11.-General debate in the house on the sundry civil appro-priation bill was concluded yesterday. The speakers during the day touched a variety of topics, but, as a rule, the de bate lacked spirit and interest. Mr Dockery of Missouri, who is at the head of the minority of the appropriations committee, reinforced Mr. Cannon's figures as to the deficiency in the revenues. Mr. DeArmond of Missouri, Mr. Gillet of Massachusetts and others discussed the policy of expansion and Mr. Lentz of Ohio severely criticised the administration for exercising clemency in the case of General Eagan. The latter charged that there was an evident disposition to reward those who attacked General Miles, because the latter had the manhood to tell the truth about the alleged rotten food fed, to, our troops in Cuba and Porto Rico. It was by far the most interesting da of the trial, and the defendants. John H. Chance and Arthur Hagan, had all day kept their eyes upon the witnesses and followed the evidence very attentively. At both sessions there were tilts between counsel over the admission of certain evidence, and several of the witnesses had to undergo rigid crossexamination at the hands of the senior counsel for the defendants.

"OPEN DOOR POLICY"

Discussed by Lord Beresford, Who Has Just Come From the Orient.

England, America, Germany and Japan Interested.

Their Combined Influence Will Prevent Breaking Up of Chinese Empire.

San Francisco, Feb. 11.-The new Japanese liner America Maru arrived here yesterday from China and Japan, via Honolulu, one day ahead of time. On board the vessel was Lord Charles Beresford, admiral of the British navy. The America Maru was met by a government tugboat bearing a party of distinguished citizens, who went to welcome the visiting admiral. The party landed before the vessel docked by special permission and the admiral was driven to the Palace

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD.

In an interview, Lord Beresford said, regarding the open door policy in the Orient: "It means simply that instead of 'spheres of influence,' which means the England, America, Germany and Japan shall by agreement maintain free and equal commercial relations for all the Orient. It includes the organization of the Chinese army, officered both as to commissioned and non-commissioned officers, by Europeans; that the Chinese empire may be properly policed and properly made safe.

"China must have a revenue, and the open door policy, by guaranteeing order and uniformity in customs regulations and traffic, will provide it in greater abundance than it has even been provided before, besides insuring that it shall not be wasted as it is now. It will mean the opening up of the empire in all of its provinces and the development of its wonderful resources of mining and "If the spheres of influence policy is allowed to be adopted Russia will, of to it is "to threaten to give a blow course, become all powerful in the north, France in the south. England, of course, cannot get anything. Germany will get what she can, while America will probably get nothing, for, though I think she is destined to be a great trading nation the Orient, greater than Great Britain or any other country, her interests there now are comparatively slight, and in the scamble it is not likely the American peo ple would feel their interests demanded a struggle for a portion of it at this time.

"But with the 'open door' equal opporbound to grow. With the spheres of influence, of course, Russia would put on preferential tariffs in the regions she dominates, and France would do the same in her territory. I do not know whether Germany and England would or not. Thus America would be cut out altogether, or practically so, from the China trade and England from all but that she dominated. So that America really has more interest in the 'open door' than England has.

"I go from here to Chicago and New York and Washington to get the sentiments of the boards of trade and the chambers of commerce there on the pro-Lord Beresford will remain here for posted on most of the countries of the old world, will be at Keith's the week of Feb. 13 with his richly illuminated travelogue on Spain and her people. It will embrace magnificent scenes of old Castile, with more than a passing glance of Gibraltar, which is very rarely pictured owing to the stringent rules England makes against having photographs taken of herfortifications. Dr. Bowker owns a series of these views which will be positively shown, though such an exhibition would hardly be allowed in British possessions. The views are splendidly colored. As a rule, people in this world don't enjoy half the comfort they should. It isn't because they don't work bard enough, it's because they don't manage right. For instance, by spending a small amount here, we can sell you one of the most luxurious couches in existence. How much wiser it is to spend a little of your earnings occasionally for such a permanant entirely as this then the probability of the state of the stat ent article as this, than to spend it as many do, for one thing or another that leaves nothing to show for the money invested.

Think what a couch means, an attractive piece of furniture for your home, always ready to welcome you and give comfort and genuine rest to every member of your family.

AND VALUES A BUSY COMMITTEE.

Fifty-nine Matters Before Representative Sprague's Committee.

Few of the committees of the Legislature have had more matters referred to it than the Committee on Election Laws, of which Representative Sprague of this city is a valuable member. There are already 59 bills and petitions. The first hearing was given Wednesday, Feb. 8, on the petition for municipal suffrage for women, and there was no continuance. Two more hearings were held Friday morning, one on the bill that women may vote for Presidential electors, and the other Also the Amount of Each Per- on the petition that women may vote on granting liquor licenses. Democratic Senators Opposed to the Army Bill.

Will Be Asked to Reconsider Propositions to Vote on McEnery Resolution.

Washington, Feb. 13.-The house will have little or no time during the remaining three weeks of the session to devote to anything except appropriation bills. Yet there are a number of measures of great importance which will press for consideration. Much influence is being brought upon the committee or rules for another day for the passage of the public buildings bill, to which the house last week devoted two days in committee of the whole, and this request will probably be acceded to, but hardly during the coming week.

The announcement of Chairman Cannon that there was no time to consider the steamship subsidy bill and the Nicaraguan canal bill settles the fate of the former. The friends of the latter are to try a flank movement by attempting to attach the canal bill to the sundry civil bill now under considera-As it will be the only change the bill will have at this session, its supporters will make a desperate fight. All the labor existing situation, will furnish texts for leaders who have been prominent in the discussion of our future policy, and carrying on the strike occupied chairs may be prolific of long struggles. It would sem, therefore, unless the opposition resumes a passive attitude that various shoe manufacturing companies | the house will have its hands full for the remainder of the session in getting through the appropriation bills.

The promised effort on the part of the committee on military affairs to get immediate consideration of the army reorganization bill probably will be the most important feature of the proceedings of the senate during the present week.

Lines are divided very sharply on this divers masculine occupations. Some termination to press the bill regardless have offered their services for war with of all other measures, and their first efchanical trades, mercantile lines and committee on appropriations to set the reorganization bill can be disposed of. They argue that it is useless to proceed with the appropriations, especially those for the army, until they know how large the army will be. They also urge that there is far greater necessity for legislation increasing the size of the army than for the appropriation of money to meet the government's expenditures. Said Senator Warren of the military committee in discussing this matter: "The present appropriations hold good until the first of next July, while the volunteer army will necessarily be disbanded as soon as the peace treaty is signed by the Spanish authorities. We army or navy of the United States since cession to the French government. will then be in a ridiculous plight, with Jan. 1, 1898. all our new possessions on our hands and our forces reduced to such an extent that we will not be able to even man our guns in this country, unless we get an increase of the army. It is absurd to say that any temporary expedient would answer the purpose. You cannot find men to enlist in the regular army at $13 a month unless they are sure of steady employment." The Democrats, not only on the military committee, but throughout the senate, will resist any effort to get the army bill through. They say, however, they will not try to prevent consideration of the bill. Speaking on this point Senator Jones of Arkansas said:

"If the Republicans want to take the responsibility of filibustering against the appropriation bills and of threwing them over to another session of congress, I, for one, am willing that they should

QUINCY STREETS.

Not for years have the streets been in such a condition as they were this morning. According to the weather bureau, twenty two inches of snow had fallen, but with the high wind that prevailed all night there were many drifts, which in some places, were ten feet or more high. It was impossible for the teams to break through these banks, and large gangs of snow shovelers were put at work This was particularly so on Hancock street, between Butler road and Norfolk Downs, and on Washington street pecially the latter, who in Boston were at Graham's hill. In these places the kept on the jump all night. While no wind had a clean sweep and piled the snow mountains high.

Weather on Record.

The South Experiences Coldest

New England Gets Her Share of the Extraordinary Visitation.

General Blockade of Traffic on Street and Steam Railroads In All Directions.

Boston, Feb. 14.-At the Boston weather bureau, J. W. Smith, the local forecast official, stated that the condition of the weather in the United States at the 8 o'clock observation yesterday morning was unprecedented in his experience, and, so far as he knew, in the annals of the weather bureau. Pacific coast, the entire country is in the south the cold is intense.

Some idea of the conditions prevailing there may be gained from the statement that at the morning observation the reading of the thermometer at Montgomery, Ala., is 12 degrees colder than t was in this city, with corresponding temperature through that section, even New Orleans being only six above. The line of zero temperature traverses the weather chart in a direction almost never seen before. As a rule it of course runs approximately east and west, but yesterday it began at a point near the mouth of the St. Lawrence and run about south by west, some distance from the Atlantic seaboard, to a point near the coast of the Gulf of Mexico. In fact it is not definitely known that it does not extend to the gulf, as, on account of the storm, reports are wanting from points farther south, but it is known that the zero line goes at least as far south as this. From there it turns and runs about northwest to Oklahoma, and from there almost directly north to the Canadian border. Thus the belt of weather below zero, instead of being spread across the United States from east to west as is ordinarily the case, runs almost directly north and south through the center of the country.

they are usually planting their spring crops at this time of year, while now the it is in New England. All through the southern states the suffering is intense. as there are no facilities there for withstanding such severe cold, while there is no doubt but that the destruction to crops, especially to the orange orchards in Florida, must have been very great. On account of the storm some reports are wanting, but with the zero line not far from Jacksonville there is little hope but the cold weather record there has been wiped out, and the destruction of a few years ago more than duplicated. Except for this condition of affairs in the south, the cold is not remarkable in any part of the country. Indianapolis has it 16 degrees below, Cincinnati 10 degrees, St. Louis 8 degrees, St. Paul 14 degrees, Milwaukee 6 degrees, Rockliffe (Can.) 32 degrees, and White River (Can.) 34 degrees below.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures per-manently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston.

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack between the several was never before the several was never before the several transfer that the several was never to the several transfer that the several was never to the several transfer that the several transfer tha ing more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Schowsey with little faith, it was more of an extensive mental to the second se discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly superised and somewhat terrified when knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I was and I can payer repay the gratitude I own have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

EIGHT HOUR DAY.

Will It Cause Trouble for Granite Industry. Conspicuous at the head of the editorial columns of every issue of the Granite Cutters' Journal is this announcement: "On and after the year 1900 the hours of labor shall not exceed eight per day for members of our Hoyt, Mae E., West New Portland, Me., 9 00 union, and all agreements and bills of prices must be framed accordingly .-See section 198 of the constitution." Commenting on the movement the

Stone Trade News and Building

Journal says: The shortening of the hours of labor is no extreme radical measure, on the contrary, it is a necessary and humanitarian measure. It betokens an era of 'peace on earth and good will towards men." The old adage of "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," is proven where long hours prevail, nature needs relaxation, and in the shorter work day is a saftey valve in more than one for our social conditions. America claims to lead the world. At present she is behind Australia and some European countries on the shorter workday question. Adopt the eight hours and lead the world is one of the necessities of the times. Why when a large majority of people in the building trades believe in eight hours for a day's work, should there be any contention about its adoption? Some claim the times are not ripe for it; if not now, when it is the all absorbing question, when will the times be ripe for it? The same arguments were made against the ten-hour day, then against the nine hour day, but who wants to go back o the dark ages? Some of the best advocates of the eight hour day are large manufacturers but they desire to see it uniform all through the country. The question is now agitating the granite trade in Barre and Quincy but there should be no difficulty in these places of coming to an early and amicable settlement. There are only two hours per week in question in those places and that should be no bar to a quick settlement, because really those places are not, owing to the quality of their stock, in strong competition with other places but what they can afford to go ahead at once and settle the question as far as they are concerned, retain their trade, and no competition can undermine the established demand for the quality of stock which has made these places celebrated, for there is but one Barre and one Quincy, as far as the granite trade is concerned, but, should the existing friendly relations be brokenly who can tell but that other places will the come to the front as Barre did in years gone by when Quincy was in trouble. It should be self evident that where *Petition for $2,000 salary for judge of Brockthere is such a slight difference as two one concedes that eight hours will comanyway, that it would be a suicidal policy not to settle the question now on the lines of progression. The cost of the change will not be as much as Part of Governor's address on more pay for the cost in money and hard feelings of an attempt to dam back for a time the aspirations of a free peope. The question of cost will regulate itself as it has always done. Work is being turned out cheaper now under the nine hours and improved labor saving machinery than under the old "sun-up" and sun down arrangement." Instead of drifting apart let manufactures and journeyman come closer together and in the light of past experience pull together for the uplifting of humanity. It is an encouraging indication that all this talk of alliances being made by this country with other countries is subsiding. Uncle Sam is strong and stalwart and should fight his own battles when necessary, aiming always so to conduct himself that he Petition for extending provisions of chapter can have the good opinion and friend-561 of 1898 to all who volunteered for war with liness of all his neighbors. CITY SHOULD PAY.

A Writer Who Does Not Be lieve in Assessments.

Editors of the Daily Ledger: The man who owns no real estate in Quincy is indeed fortunate. A fictitious valuation coupled with an excessive rate make taxes a tremendous load, amounting to almost half the earning power of money, if invested in safe sources.

The latest injustice perpetrated on the already overburdened tax payer is the sidewalk assessment. The writer pities sincerely the unfortunate woman nentioned in Friday's Ledger, who must yield up the required assessment or see the homestead sold.

Let u look a moment at the facts. The abutter must pay half of the cost of construction. Why? Is it for his benefit, or that of the public? Why should the abutter pay half, when his share of the use is but an infinestimal fraction of the total use? In some cases, ti is true, the fallacy can be advanced in defence, that the abutter owns the fee of the walk. While this is technically true, it is also true that the abulter owns the fee of the walk. While this is technically true, it is also true that the abulter owns the case only when I was quiet and of my feet and capacity to the nerve-centers; renewed power to the blood-making glands and energetic force to the entire body. A fady living in Coshocton Co., Ohio, Mrs. W. T. Stanton, of Blissfield, writes: "I had female weekness very bad for nearly three years. Had dragging down pains in and above my hips and stankers very bad for nearly three years. Had dragging down pains in and above my hips and such dragging down pains in the back and top of my head (just as though someone was lifting me by the hair). Had no ambition, would try to work a few days then would have to lie in bed for a long time. No tongue can express the suffering I endured. I had much pain at monthly periods. I doctored most of the time with as good a physician as there is in the state, but had no abutter must pay half of the cost of true, it is also true that the public easement of travel thereon deprives there is also true that the public easement of travel thereon deprives I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines I weighed the abutter to have an improved sidewalk in front of his land, than it is to the thousands of others who use it, lets" should be occasionally used in connection with the "Prescription." yet he has to pay the lion's share, though he derives no special benefit therefrom. The entire cost should be paid from the general tax levy.

It would be equally as just and sensible to tax those who live nearest o engine hou es, on the ground that in case of fire they would get quicker service than more remote residents or to tax owners of vacant land for the pure air derived therefrom. The whole tendency of modern municipal life is towards extravagance, and sound business methods, and fair play towards property holders are now old fashioned ideas.

Four Persons Met Death In a Mysterious Manner at Marlboro.

Three Others Narrowly Escaped Similar Fate.

One of the Victims Had Recently Gone to Work In a Shoe Factory

Marlboro, Mass., Feb. 14.-Police Officer Harnett found four persons dead and three persons unconscious in a house in the rear of the John A. Frye shoe factory. The medical examiner at once began an investigation to deermine the cause of death.

The dead are: Edward F. Underwood about 50 years old; Olive Clifford, aged 24, daughter of Edward; John Clifford, 2 years old, son of Olive; Frances Underwood, 8 years old, daughter of Edward. The unconscious persons were: Robert McMullen, about 55 years old; Mrs. Underwood, wife of Edward Underwood; Guy Underwood, a son.

This peculiar case was brought to light when a young woman informed Police Officer Harnett, who was patrolling his beat in front of the John A. Frye facry, that a small house in the rear apared to be on fire. Harnett went to e house and forced an entrance to the hen. The room was full of smoke not sufficient to indicate that the building was on fire. The officer went to he table and found a woman sitting be ide it. She didn't answer, so the officer threw open the windows to clear the smoke. Then he perceived an elderly man lying on a lounge and a young man sitting in a chair beside the stove. Harnett succeeded in rousing only the old man, but as he couldn't talk intelligently the officer went into the next room. On the floor, on a mattress, were four persons, and the officer found that they were all dead. All were partially undressed. In the kitchen was a small wood stove, in which a fire was burning, but there was little wood in it.

Harnett immediately sent word to the police station and the city marshal and the medical examiner responded. The unconscious persons were taken to the station in a hack and physicians summoned, who gave treatment to save the lives of the unfortunates. A little late all the persons were identified as in the above list. Two hours later the four bodies were taken to the city morgue and the medical examiner began an inquiry

> Manila, Feb. 14.-9:45 a. m.-The United States gunboat Petrel arrived late last evening with dispatches from Brigadier General Marcus P. Miller to Major General Otis, announcing that Iloilo had been taken by the combined military and naval forces on Saturday morning.

General Miller, on receipt of his instructions from Manila, sent native commissioners ashore from the United States transport St. Paul with a communication for the rebel governor of Iloilo, calling upon him to surrender within a time stated and warning him ime in many years no invocation was not to make a demonstration in the interval. The rebels immediately moved their guns and prepared to defend their position. Thereupon the Petrel fired two warning guns, the rebels immediately opening fire upon her. The Petrel and the Baltimore then bombarded the town, which the rebels, having set on fire, immediately evacu ated. American troops were promptly landed and extinguished the fires in all cases of foreign property, but not before considerable damage had been done. It is believed that the enemy's loss during the bombardment was heavy, but no American casualties are reported.

Couches

As a rule, people in this world don't enjoy half the comfort they should. It isn't because they don't work bard enough, it's because they don't manage right. For instance, by spending a small amount here, we can sell you one of the most luxurious couches in existence. How much wiser it is to spend a little of your earnings occasionally for such a permanent article as this, than to spend it as many do, for one thing or another that leaves nothing to show for the money invested.

Think what a couch means, an attractive piece of furniture for your home, always ready to welcome you and give comfort and genuine rest to every member of your family.

Beautiful Couches, $5.00 to $15.00, 40 patterns to choose from, worth twice our asking price.

That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. Preposterous as these visions seem there are able tically and with a measure of success

After the strike of the dock laborers few years ago some of their leaders dreamed of a common organization in natural branches of sailors, stevedores, lightermen and port workers generally throughout Europe. Little by little they began to prosecute their scheme, and by 1896 it had advanced sufficiently to be made the working basis of this general union of labor. The center of the efforts toward it so far as they affect international transport is London, and in spite of the secrecy that cloaks them a correspondent of The Standard, an exceptionally trustworthy newspaper, has learned something of their progress. Presumably they are going forward among the employees of railways as well as among the workers in transport by sea, but with the former they are more difficult, as in many continental countries the servants of the railways are likewise the servants of the state. Their results have been fewer and greater mystery enwraps them. Among the handlers of goods shipped by sea there is at least a beginning of organization, The Standard affirms, in every important port in Europe, while in some instances national and international affiliation has begun. In Great Britain the port workers are well organized in separate unions, which want only ripe occasion to be fused into a national body to become in turn a part of an international association. In the more important French ports local organizations exist that, in spite of the legal prohibition of international associations and of the surveillance of the police, are in more or less communication and comity with kindred organizations in other countries. In Germany, where there are similar prohibition and similar surveillance, like conditions prevail, while the unions of German seamen and dock workers are more numerous and strong than are those of France. In the ports of the Mediterranean, the Adriatic and the ceived. Black seas it was necessary to begin at the very beginning. Local organizations of the handlers of freight have said: just been formed, and the ensuing national and international association will than anything else that the American be very gradual and secret evolutions. As for the United States, the handlers and the movers of goods in American which labor is to paralyze the industry ports lie presumably within the scope of this international federation—the more so as the chief exports thence are essential to the food supply of Europe. Presumably also the propaganda, local national and international, is going forward beyond the Atlantic. THE BURNING QUESTION. Something Must Be Done For the Army of Unemployed. Mayor Samuel M. Jones of Toledo in a speech before the Social Reform club of New York, said:

"The great burning question of the unemployed," said he in addressing the members, "is one that I believe is soon to be regarded not only as a municipal question, but a state and national problem that will require wise heads to solve.

"Before I was elected mayor I had become somewhat interested in the labor question, but when the great army of the unemployed in our small city came before me I was appalled. I found that our city had no provision for that That remedy is stigma on American civilization, the American tramp. We kept them overnight, and they were obliged to sleep in the station houses on the floor, with nothing to make their bed in any de gree softer, and not even a block of wood for a pillow. In the morning we turned them out without anything to eat save a most meager meal of unfit skirts of the city, told them to 'move were at the same time telling their effects out of the system. To get the full benefit of a hair mattress, it should be made over at least once in every two years. People go to bed tired, don't sleep well, get up tired, don't feel rested all day. Some think it's the weather, some imagine old age is creeping over them, others begin to take something for "That tired feeling." It's all wrong. Sleep is the medicine of nature, and if you can command sleep, you can afford to snap your fingers at work. Your mattress should be soft and comfortable. If it is not. let us take it, make it over and return it to you in a few days' time. Just think,—for a trifling outlay you can be assured of at least two years of restful sleep at night. Mattress ticks washed, and new ticks furnished when desired.

Good Afternoon.

When Congressman Barrows spoke in the recent campaign in Quincy, he said it was a pleasure to gaze at the city from his home in Boston. When President McKinley takes an airing today on the roof garden of the Touraine and sees the flags flying all over Boston, Cambrid e, Somerville, and Palmer by the defence and the subseother suburban towns, we may feel like crawling into that cavity of which Dr. Everett spoke, should he ask his guide what wilderness that is to the south. Quincy, the "City of Presidents" should enthuse just a little over the presence of President McKinley. If the city government could not secure a visit from the President to the birthplaces and burial places of President John Adams and President John Quincy Adams, it could at least fly flags over its public buildings.

fore the telegram reached City Hall

ne indications are that Quincy will again go before a committee of the Legislature with a boulevard petition ill prepared to give it the impetus time it was a movement of real estate owners, and the city was not called in until too late. Now our new Mayor has, single-handed, without consulting the City Council, petitioned the Legislature, and a hearing has been assigned for an early date. It would have been well to have held a mass meeting before the hearing and become united.

On many streets of the city, including several within half a mile of City Hall, no attempt has yet been made to clear the sidewalks of snow, and in some cases the snow has not been disturbed by foot prints. The abutters who have shovelled a path on the sidewalk are among our most public spirited citizens, where action speaks louder than words, and it is to be regretted that more have not assisted to lift the embargo which stills keeps many indoors. Don't wait for the Street Department of the city.

The Quincy & Boston officials and employes deserve great credit for the energy and good management they employes deserve great credit for the displayed in breaking the snow blockade and getting their lines in working order.

Chance Exhibits Wounds and Undergoes Examination.

The Herald summarizes the Hagan-Chance trial of Wednesday as follows: John H. Chance, who is on trial for the murder of Drug Clerk Russell, was upon the witness stand yesterday afternoon. He was not there as a witness, lowever, but was put there to undercondition. Chance stood on a chair ngs and was coatless.

Making Over Mattresses.

To get the full benefit of a hair mattress, it should be made over at least once in every two years. People go to bed tired, don't sleep well, get up tired, don't feel rested all day. Some think it's the weather, some imagine old age is creeping over them, others begin to take something for "That tired feeling." It's all wrong. Sleep is the medicine of nature, and if you can command sleep, you can afford to snap your

Your mattress should be soft and comfortable. If it is not, let us take it, make it over and return it to you in a few days' time. Just think,—for a trifling outlay you can be assured of at least two years of restful sleep at night. Mattress ticks washed, and new ticks furnished when desired.

We have made progress in industry not only been successful in our financial and business affairs, but have been succan arms and a new chapter to American history.

I do not know why in the year 1899 this republic has unexpectedly had placed before it mighty problems which it must face and meet. They have come and are here, and they could not be kept away. Many who were impatient for the conflict a year ago, apparently heedless of its large results, are the first to cry out against the farreaching consequences of their own act. Those of us who dreaded war most and whose every effort was directed to prevent it, had fears of new and grave problems which might follow its inauguration. The evolution of events, which no man could control, has brought these problems upon us. Certain it is that they have not come through any fault on our own part, but as a high obligation, and we meet them with clear conscience and unselfish purpose, and with good heart resolve to undertake their solution. War was declered in April, 1898, with practically unanimity by the congress, and, once upon us, was sustained by like unanimity among the people. There had been many who had tried to avert it, as, on the other hand, there were many who would have precipitated it at an early date. In its prosecution and conclusion the great majority of our countrymen of every section believed I have been deeply and profoundly moved by this manifestation of your at home or at sea or in the field they had

As a rule, people in this world don't enjoy half the comfort they should. It isn't because they don't work hard enough, it's because they don't manage right. For instance, by spending a small amount here, we can sell you one of the most luxurious couches in existence. How much wiser it is to spend a little of your earnings occasionally for such a permanent article as this, than to spend it as many do, for one thing or another that leaves nothing to show for the money invested.

Think what a couch means, an attractive piece of furniture for your home, always ready to welcome you and give comfort and genuine rest to every member of your family. Beautiful Couches, $5.00 to $15.00, 40 patterns to choose from, worth twice our asking price.

Annual Report of the class under a strong teacher in every School Board.

Reduction of Appropriation Was for them, and the serious loss of time Short Sighted.

The annual report of the School Board for 1898 has so much food for hought, that it is given in full. The special committee on report were Miss Mabel E. Adams, Mr. Frank C. Field and Rev. W. R. Breed, and their report was adopted by the board, viz: To the Citizens of Quincy:

Doubtless shortsighted people may say that the schools did very well on the reduced appropriation, that no urge teachers to attend summer schools pupils were denied admission and that, therefore, these economies were wise nes. But how was the money saved? In the first place by forbearing to buy the usual quantity of coal, so that next year's fuel might not be charged to surp!us supplies, the accumulation of years of saving, by paring here and scrimping there, shortening the term of the evening school, doing without desirable text books-in short following a plan of economy easily practicable for one year but out of the question for several. As for the matter of acommodations, the rooms are full now in the Willard, the John Hancock, the Adams and the Lincoln, the four buildings which would have been relieved by the proposed eight-room building in the Lincoln district. Here and there are a few empty seats, enough to provide for pupils received by transfer or promoted during the term, but nowhere is there an empty room suitable for a new class. It is therefore a tributes to the city's material from crust and cut into fingers one inch serious question where the entering classes of the spring term can be placed. At present her menagerie consists of 1 horse, 246 chickens, 15 hens, 1 rooster, 2 rabbits, 1 goat, 1 kid, 25 ducklings, 3 goslings, 1 dog, 3 turkeys, 1 canary guinea chicks.

Of course the barn in which the horse is kept is small, and the goat has to be lifted in and out of his pen, as it is a tight fit for him.

The rooster, too, being of a roving disposition, has to be tied up, and even the cat must be tethered to keep her from feeding on the young chicks.

The dog is kept a prisoner, as he is filled with a desire to fight the cat, and there is not room in Mrs Foy's garden for any fights. But a happier, healthier collection of fowls and animals cannot be found, nor a prettier, cleaner garden. -Exchange.

A JUST CAUSE.

It was welcomed by every lover of peace beneath the flag. The Philippines, like Cuba and Porto the providence of God and in the name of human progress and civilization, we are committed. It is a trust we have not sought; it is a trust from which we will not flinch. The American people will hold up the hands of their servants at home to whom they commit its execution, while Dewey and Otis and the brave men whom they command will have the support of the country in upholding our flag where it now floats, the symbol and assurance of liberty and

What nation was ever able to write an accurate program of the war upon which it was entering, much less decree in advance the scope of its results? Congress can declare war, but a higher power decrees its bounds and fixes its relations and responsibilities. The president can direct the movements of soldiers on the field and fleets upon the sea, but he cannot foresee the close of such movements or prescribe their limits. He can not anticipate or avoid the consequences, but he must meet them. No accurate map of nations engaged in war can be traced until the war is over, nor can the measure of responsibility be fixed till the last gun is fired and the verdict embodied in the stipulations of peace.

We hear no complaint of the relations created by the war between this government and the islands of Cuba and Porto Rico. There are some, however, who regard the Philippines as in a different relation; but whatever variety of views there may be on this phase of the question, there is universal agreement that the Philippines shall not be turned back to Spain. No true American consents to that. Even if unwilling to accept them ourselves, it would have been a weak evasion of manly duty to require Spain their lawful parsuits, encouraging them to transfer them to some other power or in thrift and industry, making them feel powers, and thus shirk our own presen responsibility. Even if we had had, as we did not have, the power to compel such a transfer, it could not have been made without the most serious international complications. Such a course could not be thought of. And yet had we refused to accept the cession of them we should have had no power over them, even for their own good. We could not discharge the responsibilities upon us until these islands became ours either by conquest or treaty. There was but one alternative, and that was either Spain or the United States in the Philippines. The other suggesticusfirst, that they should be tossed into the arena of contention for the stafe of nations, or, second, be left to the anarchy more severe, I was advised by a friend, who and chaos of no protectorate at allwere too shameful & be considered.

The treaty gave them to the United States. Could we have required less and done our duty? Could we, after freeing American people love liberty and have the Filipinos from the domination of Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first of my feelings from the confidence on the first of my feelings from the domination of Spain, have left them without government and without power to protect life or property or to perform the international obligations essential to an independent state? Could we have left them in a state of anarchy and justified ourselves in our own consciences or before the king directions, with just the results to his directions, with just the results. ment and without power to protect life pendent state? Could we have left them to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. We were doing our duty by them as God gave us the light to see our duty, with the consent of our own consciences and with the approval of civilization. Every present obligation has been met and fulfilled in the expulsion of Spanish sovereignty from their islands, and while the war that destroyed it was in progress we could not ask their views. Nor can we now ask their con-sent. Indeed, can anyone tell me in what form it could be marshaled and ascertained until peace and order, so necessary to the reign of reason, shall be se-

The treaty has been ratified by the votes of more than two-thirds of the senate of the United States and by the judgment of nine-tenths of its people. No nation was ever more fortunate in war or more onorable in its negotiations in peace. Spain is now eliminated from the prob em. It remains to ask what we shall now do. I do not intrude upon the duties of congress or seek to anticipate or forestall its action. I only say that the treaty ing back to the administration of Willof peace, honorably secured, having been am McKinley and blessing it for the ratified by the United States, and, as we confidently expect, shortly to be ratified in Spain, congress will have the power, and I am sure the purpose, to do what that administration as dating a new to his left hip through a fall on the ice. Speculation as to Succession to the Presidency Has Already Begun.

Paris. Feb. 17 .- At 10 o'clock last night, That treaty now commits the free and for doubting and repining is inexorably after an illness of but a few hours, Presient Felix Faure died of apoplexy.

About 6 o'clock M. Faure, who was then in his study, went to the door of the room of M. L. R. Legall, his private sec retary, which is contiguous to the study, and called M. Legall, saying. "Comquickly, I feel ill." When M. Legall reached him the president was rubbing his forehead and saying: "I do not feel well." M. Legall asked where he felt pain and the president replied: "I feel a general weak bill was passed. The postoffice appro- ness. I am fainting." Dr. Humbert, on priation bill was under consideration arriving, gave ether inhalation. He did not consider the case serious; but, on noon, but was not disposed of finally. A finding that his patient did not revive, ousness of the attack, for he murmured: "I feel my senses failing me. I am gone see his wife and children.

When Mme. Faure and her daughters entered the room the president exthings happened in the house during the claimed: "I am suffering greatly. I am lost.

At 8 o'clock, when the doctor had acquainted M. Legall with his worst fears, the latter informed M. Dupuy, who announced his intention to come to the Elysee, but on M. Legall observing that his presence might needlessly alarm Mme. Faure, who was not then aware of the gravity of the situation, the premier said he would remain at the ministry of hours, its determination hinging upon the interior in readiness to come at any moment. At the same time he summoned the members of the cabinet.

Meanwhile M. Faure remained on the sofa, repeating that he had no illusions but ask your druggists first. A little and devotion she had constantly shown him, and then he bade farewell to his tered.

The national assembly, consisting of the senate and chamber of deputies, united in congress, will probably meet tomorrow. M. Emile Loubet, as presi dent of the senate, becomes president of it back with the Nicaraguan canal bill the congress. It is expected that the struggle for the presidency will be very regarded as lying between him, Henr Brisson and M. Loubet. Other possibl candidates are M. De Frevcinet, minis 97 ayes to 67 nays. As no quorum was ter of war; M. Godefroy Cavaignac, former minister for war, and M. Quesnay de Beaurepaire. It is reported that the re cently formed league known as La Patrie Française will actively push M. De Beaurepaire's candidature.

Under the present exceptionally exciting conditions, anything may be expected to happen. Much depends upon what General Zuelinden, military govelement, may decide to do.

So far Paris remains tranquil By a curious coincidence, M. Dupuy occupies the same position which he held occupies the same position which he h when President Carnot was assassinated on June 24, 1894.

M. De Freycinet has ordered the troops confined to barracks.

As a rule, people in this world don't enjoy half the comfort As a rule, people in this world don't enjoy half the comfort they should. It isn't because they don't work hard enough, it's because they don't manage right. For instance, by spending a small amount here, we can sell you one of the most luxurious couches in existence. How much wiser it is to spend a little of your earnings occasionally for such a permanent article as this, than to spend it as many do, for one thing or another that leaves nothing to show for the money invested.

Young Mother's Fad.

It has become a fad of late for the young mother to invest in one of the little diaries (which is about as good a descriptive name as any for the books in question) for her firstborn. This book, which several firms have got out under various names, is designed as a sort of diary of the child's life from its birth to its teens. There are pages for its pretty photographs of various ages, for its quaint and witty sayings for its unusually cute and bright acts, for its budding characteristics and talents which may need development later on. There are also pages devoted to it. physical life, records of its ailments and actual illnesses, with remedies and curatives, which may be of not a little service to the mother when the next little one appears. This diary is so arranged that the trouble of keeping it is very slight indeed. Its interest to the child, when grown up, cannot fail to be great, and its value to the mother, in sense to it. - Elmira Telegram.

Of all the emotions fear is the most deadly, and whether in the supreme degree where is turns the hair white, or in the minor degree where it invests every apple with stomach ache, the disease of "food fear" is not to be treated lightly, for it is both widespread and deep seated. It has spoiled life's comfort for many, and, unchecked, will spoil it for many more. Intelligence surely points to accepting all natural foods as "good." We should divest them in our minds of any adverse reputation they may have and then test them confidently on their own merits-not once, but many times. If possibly, some per sonal idiosyncrasy interferes with toleration of an article, we should yield to it grudgingly only after determined resistance; for does it not seem a logical necessity that the stomach, like all other organs of the body, is weakened by inaction and strengthened by proper exercise? A personal idiosyncrasy counts for more than all the dietary arguments in the world, and we all of us prove the truth of this every day we live. - Ella Morris Kretschmar in Woman's Home

A Big City Tragedy.

The little tragedies of the big fires are seldom told. One occurred recently when a small girl went to work and found the big shop a mere shell coated with ice and surrounded by a crowd of firemen and passersby. She sat down on the curb of the street and wept. A policeman told her to "move on out of that," and she did, circling around the corner and gazing at the ruined shop like a bird hovers over a nest which has which was to be the nucleus of a sum to send her brother south for his health. THE OLD CLOCK.

"All the world loves a lover!" The words were ringing in my ears as I sat on the cushioned seat in the deep square window. The world was all white and beautiful, snow covered the fields and meadows far into the horizon, where the sun was sinking in his crimson

It was twilight, everything was soft and dreamy, and the tick of the old clock seemed to my girlish mind to repeat the words I had heard my mother say laughingly to my father after some tender jest of his. "Loves a lover-tick —tock—loves a lover!

I was in a big old fashioned hall, there were the broad low stairs leading to the rooms above, the tall mahogany clock with its dear old face that was like a friend to me. What a deal it could tell of all that had come and gone since it stood in its dim recess. Tales of the first kiss beneath the mistletoe, of the sweet words whispered on the stairs, of the stories told around the blazing Yule logs, all memories of other days-when grandmother was young

"Tick-tock, loves a lover, tick-tock!" I turned toward the clock; the red glow from the outer world lighted up its face. Surely I was not dreaming! The face seemed to be smiling at me, and the words changed into "little girllittle girl," as if half pitying me because I was left alone.

I heaved a sigh, and before it had well passed my lips the old clock seemed to say: "I've seen many things, and if little girls would keep their ears open they could learn from almost everything about them. We don't say much," with a half point of hand toward the big old bookcase, which gave a groan in answer. "But we watch and learn a great deal more than people give us credit for. I can tell you about your grandmother and how I, by what you would stupidly call an accident, changed her whole

It gave me a strange feeling to hear the clock which I had loved and listened to from babyhood speak so plainly to me. Before this I had always known it could tell me so much if I could only understand, and now, quite suddenly, I understood just as if the old clock, tick-tock," spoke in my own language.

BRICK VENEER HOUSE.

Appearance Neat and Artistic and Cost Moderate.

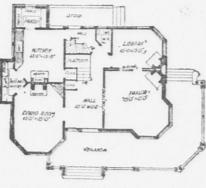

[Copyright, 1899, by George Palliser, 32 Park place, New York.] When home structures shall all be of brick or stone and clay products, then may it be truly said that we shall have reached the age of reason. This time will as surely come as that time itself lasts, it is safe to predict. The general improvement in brickmaking and coloring of the last few years has done much to help this time along, and now the man who wants to build a brick house can in many favored locations do so almost as cheaply as he can one of frame. Good brick at $5 per 1,000, making it possible to lay them at $12 per 1,000, is today as cheap as frame, and as a measure of utility and artistic appearance the brick stands first, and it is decidedly

Third.—The above principle of taxation means the actual suppression of all taxes—taxes being burdens on labor on what men produce. Land values taxation means society collecting its own honest, natural revenue with which to meet its own natural expenses, or citizens returning to society a small portion of the increased earnings that society imparts to all labor or services within its circle of co-operation. Civilization, the genuine article, what can that be but co-operation? Land values taxation $1,000,000,000 per annum in public income. That would give to society a natural, solid basis for a medium of exchange with which to sweep out of existence all other money. Even $10,000,-000,000 of government notes would be but 50 per cent capitalization of our annual income today with which to cancel the labor created values of all monopolistic concerns by socializing them. Remember that our new medium of exchange could only be used in production, all land and franchise gambling having been driven into the limbo of past iniquities. The above three concepts realized into facts would clear the deck for action in the social fabric. We could then march or along the path of progress. We would then have learned how to be honest with each other. Nothing is impossible o honest men along the line of good. Nothing but evil and sorrow, turbulances and distress is possible to the human family without basic honesty in he social compact, just what we have always lacked and lack today more thin ever. No Night There. In heaven above there is no night To shroud the day in gloom, For God is there, and He is light, And He doth heaven illume.

No night of sorrow spreads a shade To pall the sunny hours, For joys are there that never fade And never lose their flowers.

There is no night of weeping there To dim the bending skies, For tears have ceased and every care And with them grieving sighs.

No night of trial there descends To cast its shadows dun, For there the Christian's battle ends, and victory is won.

And there no night of death e'er falls Ne'er leaps the form of death.

No darkness there, no waning light! Oh, what a heaven this—

Esau.

A Ralls county man was called to Kentucky to get some property left him by his father-in-law. Among the personal estate was a valuable jack. On his return he reached home after his little boy, Charlie H., had gone to sleep. Early the following morning the old jack waked the echoes of the surrounding hills with his prolonged braying, as only an old jack can. Little Charlie, who had never before heard any such music, was awakened by the unearthly sounds. In surprise and terror he called to his mother: "Mother, oh, mother! In ordinary mild cases of freezing treatment may be effectually adminis tered at home. Bear in mind that the affected part should not be warmed too rapidly, but should be bathed in snow or ice water for a few minutes, then wrapped in wet cloths. The patient should then be gradually warmed. If this does not bring relief, by all means call a physician. Predisposed people should keep their hands and feet well wrapped to avoid chilblains. How to Pronounce Spanish.

Those who are ambitious to pro nounce Spanish names correctly in the Spanish way can accomplish such pronunciation without much difficulty if are always pronounced in the same manner. "A" has the sound of the English "a" in far. "E" is sounded as "o" in hollow, "u" like "oo" in too. Of the consonants "h" is nearly silent "c" is hard like the English "k," except before "e" and "i," when it has Castilian. In the Cuban Spanish the sound is that of "s" in sink. "Z" has always the sound of "th," and "d" is pronounced like the soft "th" in they. "Ch" has the sound of "sh" in ship "ll" is liquid, as in billiards, "j" i a guttural "h," "r" is rougher than in English, otherwise the same. "G" is sounded like an aspirated "h" before "e," "j" and "c," and like the English "g" before the other vowels or a consonant. The other letters have the same sound as in English.

How to Make a Fondue. Mix a quarter of a pound of butter with three tablespoonfuls of flour. Add to it three gills of cream and stir it over the fire until thoroughly cooked and add sufficient grated parmesan cheese to flavor it. Break four eggs, separating the yolks from the whites, and add the yolks to the mixture. Whisk the whites very firm, put them on the mixture and bake in a moderately quick oven.

How to Make Oyster Potpie.

Scald a quart of oysters, free from bits of shell, in their own liquor. When it boils, skim out the oysters and set aside in a warm place. To the liquor add a pint of hot water, season with a large teaspoonful of salt, quarter teaspoonful of pepper and tablespoonful of butter. Thicken with a large tablespoonful of flour and three of milk. Have ready nice light biscuit dough, rolled twice as thick as pie crust. Cut in inch squares, drop into the boiling stew, cover closely, cook 40 minutes, take up, stir oysters into the stew and serve on one dish.

How to Make Citron Pudding.

Mix together one spoonful of flour, two ounces of sugar, two ounces of citron, finely chopped, a little nutmeg, half a pint of cream and the yolks of three eggs. Put the mixture in teacups and bake in a quick oven.

How to Grill Salt Pork.

Take a pound of quite thin slices of the thick part of side pork, of a clear white and thinly streaked with lean. Hold on a toasting fork before a clear fire to grill, immersing it frequently in and render it more delicate. Put each slice as cooked in a warm covered pan. When all are done, serve hot.

MOON'S PHASES.

BRAINTREE.

Mr. George H. Wetherbee has been drawn as juryman. He will assume the duties next Tuesday.

The senior class of Thayer Academy will give its class play in the Town Hall one week from tonight.

The train that brought the presidential party from Washington came out to Braintree to turn the coaches Thursday.

There was no school Monday, Tuesday because the children did not ap-

Rag Carpets.

A very pretty carpet for a Dutch or delft blue room may be made of white and blue rags in hit or miss effect with a deep blue border, says The Ladies' Home Journal. White cloth of any kind can be colored the required tint either with indigo or the regularly prepared household dye. Rag carpet is woven in breadths of a yard in width and in any length required. One breadth in solid color can form the bordering if desired. If warp is used one pound one yard, but the fabric will be more Philadelphia, Baltimore and Boston. loosely woven and not as durable. Instead of Striking.

The Trades Review, Bloomington, Ills., has this to say in relation to a ceal mine to be operated by the miners' union at or near that city: "The state miners have put enough money into the Pana fight to sink a coal shaft. They have acquired wisdom in that struggle and purpose to have something to show for the money destined to be expended in Bloomington. Instead of applying it to strike benefits and agitation work they propose that a company shall be formed for the purpose of sinking a shaft here, for which purpose they will supply the money. The miners of the state are contributing, through a system of assessments, over $2,000 a week for defense and aggressive work, and are in position to furnish all the money necessary to carry out the plan out-

In exer tion of this kind, when the heart is nat urally excited to more rapid action, it is desirable that the lungs should have full play. But the crouching position interferes with their action, the blood is imperfectly aerated, and there is trouble right away. Give the lungs a chance to do their work everywhere and at all times.

How to Cook Quails.

Singe, draw and wash the quails, lard he breast and legs, run a small skewer through the legs and tail and bind them firmly round with thread. Baste the breasts with a small quantity of clarified butter and dust a little salt over and dredge them quickly with flour. Place the quails in a baking dish and bake them in a quick oven for 15 minutes. Put a layer of bread sauce on a hot dish. When cooked, unite the birds, place them on the dish with the bread sauce, sift plenty of fried bread crumbs over them, garnish with a little parsley and serve.

BY ABSORPTION NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of derful cures effected in and around Boston.

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor ABSORPTION when all other treatment faile promised I would get, thing, and the doctor (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor the pronounced me recovered. NICARAGUA CANAL BILL

May Be Lost Through Its Placing by the Senate as a Rider.

Stormy Times Expected In Congress' Closing Days.

Must Be Much Work During Next Two Weeks to Prevent an Extra Session.

Washington, Feb. 20.-The house enters upon the last two weeks of the session with three appropriation bills-the army, fortifications and general deficiencyunacted upon, and the naval bill but half completed. The army bill must be held back until the senate shall decide upon its course relative to the reorganization, but it is not anticipated that either of the other bills will cause trouble.

The situation in the house, however, had been greatly complicated by the action of the senate in placing the Nica- Bliss as the head of the interior departraguan canal bill upon the river and harbor bill as a rider. This will doubtless precipitate a bitter fight in the senate, The failure of the river and harbor bill will not make an extra session incumbent, but the contest over it will develop bad blood and produce friction which may make it all the more difficult with the other measures that must of necessity pass to avoid an extra session. The conference reports on all the big approif the senate should load some of them asking that an exchange be made. down, as it has the river and harbor, stormy times in the house would be inevitable during the closing days.

The last six days of the session fortunately are suspension days, under which any proposition can be forced to a vote after 20 minutes' debate on a side. Today is also suspension day under the 000 to Spain to carry out the terms of the other senators in opposition so long as no disposition is manifested to abandon no disposition is manifested to abandon at least some portions of the house bill. The vital point of difference between the two sides of the chamber is the duration of time for which the increase in the army is to be made. The Republicans demand that it shall be permanent and the Democrats refuse to make it more than temporary. The latter declare that they will not abandon this position, and say that whatever is done must be done with this understanding. partial attention and the river and harbor bill none. It is expected that the sundry civil bill will be reported late in the week. The river and harbor bill will probably arouse considerable discussion, army, fortifications and deficiency bills which have not yet been received from the house of representatives. Senator Cullum says he will make an effort to get up the general bill providing a government for Hawaii, but the chances of success are very slim. Senator Fairbanks will also undertake to call up the bill extending the anti-contract labor laws to Hawaii. There may be an effort to amend this measure, and it also may fail. Senator Carter will continue to press the Alaskan bill whenever opportunity affords. The Sampson-Schley controversy will almost certainly ome up in executive session. The antiscalping bill will be abandoned. For the rest, there are many minor bills on the calendar which will give the senate plenty to do when it is not engaged with the more momentous questions. Says Use of Phrase "Pretense of Experiment" Was Unfortunate.

Disclaims Intending Any Inference of Fraud.

Testimony Concerning Alleged Interviews With Certain Newspaper Reporters.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The court of inquiry to examine into the beef controversy assembled at the Lemon buildthe White House, where it paid its respects to the president, and then to the war department, where it called upon Secretary Alger and Major General Miles. Meantime representatives of the press, who were accorded places in the court room, had assembled, and on the outside were many other correspondents and a number of artists specially detailed to at and the inquiry.

The court returned at 12:05 from its visits of courtesy, and Colonel Davis announced readiness to proceed, and read orders convening the court, and its

General Miles appeared in fatigue uni form, rather striking in its contrast with the display of the full dress uniform of the court. He submitted to the questioning of Colonel Davis, recorder of the court, with equanimity, except for a flash of mingled indignation and irony when he informed the recorder that he was not compelled to "report" to the commissary general of the army. This was in reply to a question as to whether or not he had reported to the commiseary department the fact that complaints had been made to him as to the quality of meat being issued to the troops. An instant later General Miles resumed his cool and carefully considered replies to the inquiries of the court. As indicated by a letter of the adju-tant general, read by the recorder for the information of the court, the scope of the inquiry was limited to the allegations of General Miles before the war commission as to the quality of the army beef, "and the matter purporting to have been furnished to the public press by the same official."

In answer to a question of Colone Davis, General Miles said he thought his use of "pretence of experiment" was unfortunate, and he disclaimed any intention to impute fraud to any one.
"As far as indicating fraud," he said, "I wish to state that no such inference was intended. It was perhaps an unfortunate expression, and, had my attention been called to it, I might have amended it, say-well, 'on the theory of an experiment.' As a matter of fact it was an experiment, and a very costly

"With that disclaimer," remarked Colonel Davis, "of course we will pass to the refrigerated beef."

Then, replying to a question, General Miles said he first heard complaints against the beef at Ponce. The first direct statement that it had been treated chemically came, he believed, from Dr. Daly, who presented it late in Septemthe war commis

General Miles said ne did not recollect whether Dr. Daly's report was volunteered or whether he had been ordered to investigate and report on the meat. It was general talk among the officers at Ponce, General Miles continued, that General Miles then read a long sum mary of 100 letters, received by him at army headquarters, giving the various characterized. These included "em-balmed," "decomposed," "injected," ports on refrigerator beef condemned ported the condemnation of 8000 pounds; Lieutenant Colonel O'Neill of the Chester, 4000 pounds; Colonel Hamilton

Lewis, 10,000 pounds, He said he should fix Sept. 21, the date of Dr. Daly's report, as about the earliest at which the question of chemically treated meat had been brought to his notice so as to command his full atten-

Only two interviews were called up by the court, the first an interview with a New York Journal representative early in the beef controversy, in which Genera Miles was questioned as charging that certain chemicals were used in the preservation of the army beef, and another of the New York Herald under date of Feb. 1, covering about the same ground General Miles was very slow and care ful in his replies to recorder's questions on this point. He called attention to the fact that in both instances he was credited in the interviews with refusing to answer certain questions, and insisted that these refusals should be given due weight in considering the questions t which he did reply. He said in the case of the interview of Feb. 1 that he had a letter from the man who wrote the story refused to be interviewed, and that the whole story was made up in the office from the writer's general knowledge of Notwithstanding this, when his final answer was asked as to the authenticity of the interview General Miles did not specifically deny it, but merely said that it did not quite fairly represent his own opinion in the case. The same qualified denial as to The Journal interview of Dec. 23 was made, leaving the witness on record as not assuming any responsi-bility for the newspaper's statements, but tacitly admitting that there was a good deal in them with which he agreed. Colonel Gillespie took a hand in the inquiry when General Miles finished, describing the nausating qualities of the canned and refirigerator beef. "Did you, general, ever eat any of this beef?" Colonel Gillesple asked.

"I presume I did, about the time we were at Ponce," said General Miles, with some hesitation. "Yes, I presume 1

"Then," said Colonel Gillespie, "it had not such characteristic qualities as would permit you to detect it off-hand?"

General Miles then left the witness

The trend of questions put to the other the troops in the field, the only criticism of their position the court had to make precluded the possibility of any such action. In each case the questioning was pushed no further on this line

Minority representation sounds good and catches the ear, but it is said not always to work as well as it promises. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." SCHLEY AND SAMPSON.

Former Contributes an Interesting Chapter In the Controversy.

Latter's Charge of "Reprehensible Conduct" Unfounded.

Circumstances Connected With Battle In Which Cervera's Fleet Was Destroyed.

Washington, Feb. 21.-In reply to a request by Chairman Hale of the naval ommittee, Rear Admiral Schley, having been granted permission to answer the charges made against him in the communication recently sent to the senate, yesterday handed to the committee on naval affairs his statement, in which he disclaims any purpose of controversy of the department, he says, so far as it relates to him, can be summarized under the following heads: The delay off Cienfuegos; the alleged > Admiral Schley adds: "This letter is examination and the reading of the not printed either in the appendix or charge. Judge Larrabee bound him over executive documents, but I received it to await the ection of the April term of on the 23rd, and it shows that I was expected to hold my squadron off Cienfuegos.

As to the slow progress towards Santiago on account of the Eagle, he states that she was a part of the force which Admiral Sampson had seen fit to send borrow. He speed could may be been kent up. He had been ordered to proceed "cautiously." If, however, he had known that the Spanish fleet was in Santiago, no consideration for the Eagle at the speed of the case of the same of the amount of the amount of the same of the anything else would have prevented him from getting there at the earliest possible moment with the larger vessels, but the weather and sea made it impossible to do better than he did. Speaking of the retrograde movements which the secretary, adopting the language of Aumiral Sampson, characterizes as "reprehensible conduct," Admiral Schley says that in 42 years' service,

'never was such language used to characterize conduct of mine, and I see no reason for it now." He adds: "Acting in accordance with my best judgment, in view of the circumstances, without certain knowledge of the whereabouts of that Spanish fleet, after having been informed by the seouts, commanded by such officers as Sigsbee, Jewell and Wise, that, although they had been off Santiago for a week, that they had seen nothing of it and knew nothing of its movements, or its whereabouts since it had left Curacoa; after having been assured by Sigsbee that he did not believe it was in Santiago, and by the emphatic declaration of the Pilot Nunez; and knowing, as the sea 104 Hancock St., Quincy. Pilot Nunez; and knowing, as the sea possible to coal my squadron off the port, I deemed it best to take the action I did.

Admiral Schley speaks of the difficulty of doing anything with the insurgents, and refers to the manner in which Lieutenant Blue took three days to secure

As to the battle of Santiago, Admiral Schley says the facts of that contest speak for themselves. He quotes from his official report to Sampson, in which he congratulates the commander of the | squadron, and said the "victory is big enough for all of us." He asks the committee to contrast his reports and those of Sampson, containing references to himself, and continues:

"As to all this criticism of my course prior to the discovery by me on May 29 of Cervera's fleet, whether from Admiral Sampson or the department, none of it has ever been made by either to me, and I never heard a word of it from any one until after the battle with that fleet, although more than five weeks had passed since the alleged 'reprehensible conduct" had occurred.

'Although Admiral Sampson used this language to the secretary concerning me on July 10, just one week after the battle, he has never to this day, in any manner, or to any extent, intimated to me any disapprobation, or made to me 4 Presidents Ave., South Quincy. any criticism of my conduct of the flying lm | squadron."

Admiral Schley then submits a long detailed statement of the facts he summarized in the foregoing. Detailing events connected with the battle of July 3, he says that at 8:45 of that day Admiral Sampson made signal from his flagship "disregard movements of the commander-in-chief,' and steamed eastward to Siboney. "This," says Admiral Schley, "left me the senior officer present, and necessarily clothed me with the responsibility of the command." Continuing, he declares that when the enemy's vessels came out of the harbor a signal was made from the Brooklyn, his flagship, to the fleet to "clear ship for action." Then followed the signal "close action," and then the signal "the enemy escaping to the westward." Following the appearance of the Spanish fleet, there was a general inward movement of the American vessels, closing in and engaging it. Explaining the movements of the vessels of both fleets, he says the Spanish fleet was coming west-ward under high speed, and "changing course more to westward brought the Brooklyn heading eastward to meet it, into a position where she would have blanketed the fire of the eastern vessels of our force, now changing their course to the westward, and between them the Spanish vessels. "Instant decision," he with the navy department. The letter continues, was therefore necessary to avoid interfering in any way, or cutting off any of the fire of our vessels, as would have occurred if she had turned toward the Spanish fleet, now approaching the dustrial relief fund will begin relief op-erations in Cuba immediately. William from Cienfuegos; the retrogade move-try. He was a superscript of the consociation, started for Cuba last night to Santiago and the destruction of Cer- trated fire of our squadron. The result of this manoeuvre was that in 30 minutes from the opening of the combat four of the enemy's vessels were on fire and riddled with projectiles.

All the vessels of the enemy's fleet were a little forward of the Brooklyn's beam when they turned toward the beach on fire. At the final capture of the Colon, at 1:15 p. m., the Brooklyn was nearest, the Oregon next and then the Texas and Vixen. The New York arrived at 2:25 p. m., and the commanderin-chief assumed command of the squadron. Signals were made from the Brooklyn to the squadron until all signal halyards were shot away, and then by the Meyers' army code."

In conclusion Admiral Schley contends that the turn of the Brooklyn in the battle of the 3rd was "the crucial and deciding feature of the combat and of decided advantage." Furthermore he says it is a mistake to say that the vessel's distance from the enemy was increased to the extent of 300 yards, and adds: "Though this may not be of record, it is a fact nevertheless." He cites the fact that the charts of the board of navigators shows that the Brooklyn was nearest when it emerged from the harbon nearest at every stage of battle and nearest the Colon when it surrendered, and tion in the battle.

He says he made no report of his maneuver in his report of the battle, as its effect upon the battle was never question with him. His last paragraph reads

"On May 31 I received a telegram from the commander-in-chief congratulating me upon my success in locating and blockading the enemy's fleet at Santiago. If it was worthy of communication at that time I am at a loss to understand how it could have grown into reprehensible conduct as suggested by Admira Sampson in his letter of July 10, 1898, some six weeks later."

Natives In Manila Apply the Torch.

MEN. Fire Fighters Met With Storm of Bullets.

> Natives Finally Cleared Out by American Troops.

Manila, Feb. 23.—Immense damage has been done by fires, started by insurgents last night. The fire department has experienced great difficulty in fighting the flames, owing to defective apparatus. There was some fighting in the streets during the night, but the Americans quickly quelled the uprising.

A number of the insurgents were killed and several American soliders were wounded

A large market place was among the first to burn. Between 600 and 700 residences and business houses have been destroyed. Fires were started at several points simultaneously, and, spreading with great rapidity, resisted all efforts to control them. Hundreds of homeless natives were huddled in the streets, making the parol duty of the Americans very difficult. At 8 o'clock an incendiary fire occurred n a block of brick buildings occupied by Chinese on Calle Lacoste, in the Santa Cruz district. A stiff breeze was blowing and the inflammability of the structure caused the blaze to spread with alarming rapidity. The city fire department was hopelessly incompetent and the

The butts of their rifles and their bayonets were freely applied.

Shortly after midnight, another big fire was started in the Tondo district, where the natives are thickest, and when the firemen and soldiers attempted to work a regular fusillade of rifle and reescorted by soldiers, proceeded to clean out the houses, while the fire was un-three men were wounded. Many timid persons, imagining that the rebels had effected an entrance through the American lines, and were advancing into the city, hurried frantically from their hotels and houses, only to be stopped at the first corner by a guard. The sounding of a native bugle call, immediately preceding the firing, lent color to the story.

Thousands of Chinese crossed the bridges and plazas under fire, hurrying with their bundles to the Chinese consulate. All night long the fire spread through the Tondo district, sweeping away rows of houses, and devastating acres of territory.

The damage was inestimable. With daylight punitive measures were deeided upon, and the Americans, though tired after their sleepless night's work, soon cleared the district of every native

A Fine Battle.
Hartford, Feb. 23.—Oscar Gardner and Martin Flaherty fought a 20-round draw last night in one of the finest battles ever seen here. Flaherty forced the fighting in the early part of the contest, and his vicious rushes threw Gardner all over the ring. His fighting was marked considerably by foul tactics, while Gardner put up clean work throughout. Referee porters stated that all he wished to say was that he felt deeply grateful to the men who conducted his defense. Both men were then taken to the detention room, where Hagan was given in charge of Officer Farrell, who soon conducted him away to the jail, where he must pass a few weeks before being given his liberty.

Legislative hearing Wagons for sale. Probate notice

Good Afternoon.

The apparent indifference of the President of the City Council to the over-ruling of his decisions by the Council, is causing some comment, and E. Burke. it may cause him trouble before the year is out. To be overruled twice in one evening, and on the same issue

The three Councilmen who strongly opposed going to the Legislature for authority to borrow $150,000 outside the debt limit, may yet be successful, although but a small minority of the City Council. They certainly advanced the strongest arguments on their side in the debate. Prominent taxpayers have intimated their intention to appear before the committee of the Legislature in opposition. Only in the first years of the city, when the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. valuation was small, and the debt limit one per cent., was there a near approach to the limit. Now that the limit is two and one-half per cent., as in other cities, the margin is very large and increasing rapidly. The debt limit next January will be about $$450,000. The debt today is $205,000 matures this year, which will give an opportunity to appropriate over $250,000 within the limit within a year. > There are no end of subjects tackled by debating societies, but the most unique we have heard of was that debated by the Mathew Lyceum at North Adams. The subject was, "Resolved that it is better to be a country boy with hayseed in your hair, than a city boy with coal dust in your lungs." The negative won on the merits of the debate, while the audience favored the affirmative of the question. -Lowell News.

Purity Itself

The purer the soap, the more effectual it is and the better it does its work, without harm to clothes or skin. Fairy Soap is absolutely pure—it contains no resin to gum the clothes, no alkali to rot the threads or fade the colors, no coloring matter or impurity of any kind to injure the skin, the finest lace or most delicate fabric.

FAIRBANK'S FAIRY SOAP

is unequaled for toilet, bath, nursery and fine laundry uses, and is more economical than common soaps on account of its lasting qualities and the saving of fabrics. It's handy because it's made in three sizes—a small size for the toilet, a medium size for the bath and nursery, and a large size for the laundry.

He from Europe had been shipped for use purchased more than 800,000 pounds of canned roast beef, and told of the nethod of purchase and the reasons that prompted it. He took issue with General Miles' contention that beef on the hoof was the usual source of fresh meat supply to the army.

Another feature of the day was the introduction of Dr. Daly, who charged before the war commission that refrigerated beef at Chickamauga, Jacksonville, Tampa and in Porto Rico had been treated chemically. He was not examined, however, in regard to this charge, Colonel Davis announcing that the contractors who were attacked were entitled to be notified of the examination upon this point, that they might have ample time in which to appear should they desire to do so. The law equired this, he said. Accordingly, Dr. Daly was excused after a partial examination, and will be recalled later.

General Eagan, former commissary general, is expected to appear today and tell the story of the beef supply as viewed by his department.

Dr. Daly's examination by the recorder was conducted slowly and with great care, developing with great minuteness all of Dr. Daly's duties while attached to General Miles' staff. These, besides those of an army surgeon, consisted in making special reports to General Miles on camp sites, water supply and the The recorder very carefully developed the fact that most of these reports were verbal or telegraphic, therein differing from the now famous meat report which has caused Dr. Daly being summoned as a witness. Therein the examination differed from that of the

In all of this very detailed recital the question of beef was not once broached by the court, but when Dr. Daly had been chronologically carried through his term of service and out of the army, the difference of service and out of the army, the difference of service and out of the army, the difference of service and out of the army, the difference of service and out of the army, the difference of service and out of the army, the difference of service and out of the army, the difference of the diffe question of beef was not once broached term of service and out of the army, the recorder handed him the famous "embalmed beef" report and asked him if he recognized it. Dr. Daly said he did, and it was all right, except, perhaps, the date, which, in the copy, was Sept. 21. He said to the best of his recollection the exact date was Oct. 14. The date, howver, he said, was not essential, the report Rear Admiral Schley as the persons to Daly perfectly accurate.

Prior to leaving the stand, however, Dr. Daly was examined in regard to the Powell experiment with beef preservano contractor was involved. Dr. Daly tention to a quarter of beef, which was hanging on a transport and which Colonel Weston said had been for 60 hours in the open, and he was waiting to see what would eventuate. Dr. Daly did not recall anything of Colonel Weston's statement indicating the beef was other than a part of the general supply, or that it had been treated with a chemical as an experiment. He noticed that flies would not remain on the beef and that no larvae and Mrs. McKinley, deferred from Feb.

He thought that strange, and that beef would not putrify in the Tampa air after 60 hours' exposure. Witness finally cut a piece from the beef and later cooked and ate it. After riding horseback he became nauseated. He did not suspect preservatives on the beef, although his taste suggested an experience he had with preservatives on antelope some years before while hunting. Nevertheless, Dr. Daly said he remarked to no one about the matter. Witness wanted it made plain that Colonel Weston had said nothing about the quarter of beef being experimental, and he had no reason to suspect the government was onducting an experiment as to efficacy of any chemical preservative.

The supposed beef was a part of a consignment from the contractors, supposed to keep 72 hours in the sun, and perhaps Colonel Weston was merely curious to see if the beef would stand the test. Recurring to the taste of the beef, as suggesting an experience with preserved antelope meat, witness said some years ago, while en route to hunting grounds in the west, he secured in Chicago what was recommended as a preservative—a white powder. It was used in camp, preserved the meat, but the latter, when eaten, nauseated him. An analysis di-vulged the presence of boric and salycilic acids. In regard to the Tampa experience, Dr. Daly said it did not arouse any suspicion. Paltimore, Feb. 23.—The British steam ship Victoria, Captain Wetherell, arrived yesterday from Hull, with four of the missing Hamburg-American liner Bulgaria. They were picked up by the Victoria from an open boat of the Buled. The court should consider now, he demand. These, the front in the recent war because of a with the 25 women and children, who were picked up by the tank steamer Weehawken, and landed in Ponta Del Gada, Azore islands, a week ago, are all that have been heard of the crew of 89 men and 41 passengers which the Bulgaria had aboard when she sailed from New York for Bremen, Jan. 28. from New York for Bremen, Jan. 28. The four rescued men are: Second Mate O. Scharges, Quartermasters Carl Ludtke and John Schulz, and Seaman William Starke.

Captain Wetherell said that he sighted the Bulgaria in a disabled condition at a. m., Feb. 5, and the tank steamer Weehawken standing by and communicating with her. There was a heavy sea on, and his vessel drifted away from the disabled craft, but he steamed toward her and again located her. He saw the men aboard the crippled vessel attempt to lower a boat, and just as four of them got into it, it broke loose from the steamer and drifted away. The four men tried to row back to the Bulgaria but could not approach her on account of the high seas. The Vittoria was preparing to lower a boat to go, to the assistance of those on the Bulgaria, when the four men came alongside. With considerable difficulty they were taken

During a lull, the second officer of the Bulgaria, accompanied by six of the crew of the Vittoria, manned the boat just vacated and started for the sinking steamer. They were scarcely away from the side of the Vittoria, however, before another gale began, and the brave fellows, not being able to reach the Bulgaria, found it impossible to return to the Vittoria until several hours had to two special orders—the reading of sight of the Bulgaria until nightfall, when a hurricane arose and carried the waiting ship miles away. HEART DISEASE.

SOME FACTS REGARDING THE RAP-ID INCREASE OF HEART TOUBLES.

Do Not Be Alarmed, But Look for the Cause.

Heart troubles at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion.

Real organic disease is incurable out not one case in a hundred of heart rouble is organic.

The close relation between heart ouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and neumogastric. In another way, also the heart is effected by the form of poor digestion, which causes gas and fermentation from half deigsted food; There is a passed. Captain Wetherell remained in feeling of oppression and heaviness in the chest caused by pressure of the distended stomach on the heart and lungs, interfering with the action; hence arises palpitation and short breath. Poor digestion also poisons the ood, making it thin and watery, Poor which irritates and weakens the heart. The most sensible treatment for heart trouble is to improve the digestion and to insure the prompt assimilation of food.

This can be done by the regular use encountered, that it was found impos- after meals of some safe, pleasant and sible to make any headway, and at 2 effective digestive preparation, like a. m. the following day we were forced Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets which may to heave to. The letter carriers of Brockton are greatly interested in the bill to make the salaries of those in small cities the same as those in larger cities. The fact is that there is no difference in the work performed, and therefore no reason why the carriers in the smaller cities should be discriminated against simply because of the size of the city. All they want is what men get in other places for the same work .- Brockton Enterprise.

HIS SEVEN SONS.

"Puts me in mind of old man Freeman," said Mr. Teakwood reflectively as he shaved a keener edge on the wooden sword he was making and sighted along the blade with a discerning eye.

Old man Bolivar tilted his chair back at a more reassuring angle and clasped his hands about his knees in an easy attitude for listening. George Smith ceased the soft drawl which he had been droning into the ears of the storekeeper, and Pendarvis brought in his buggy cushions and made himself comfortable on a cracker box.

"Well, what about ole man Freeman?" asked George Smith at last in an exasperated way.

"Ole man Freeman, he's back on the ole place," the story teller finally began, "an that boy o' his'n, that Jim, he's in the little cabin on the Hi Watters place, that cabin where the gal'ry's

"What made 'im move?" asked George Smith, whose weakness it was to try to help along with fatuous questions.

"I been a-knowin old man Freeman for nigh on to a real long time," pursued Mr. Teakwood meditatively, "an it lookt to me like he could do a mighty good job now if he could go back an bring up his boys over again. It's a powerful pity, it seems like to me, that a man can't have but one chance to raise his children, an if they don't seem to pan out right that time there ain't no more show for him. I reckon it was a mighty bad year when ole man Freeman's boys begin to grow up.'

"They was a-plenty of 'em, sech as they was," remarked old man Bolivar with quite unusual and unexpected

"The ole man had seven boys," Mr. Teakwood went on, with a dry inward chuckle at some memory, "an if the ole folks had a raised 'em right he could a set back in his easy cheer an never done no more work as long as he lived. He did try the easy cheer game, but it was everlastin'ly too late. Them boys had grew up to think that the airth was pretty much made so's they could have a good time an nothin to do.

"They ain't one o' them seven boys that's worth killin today, an the ole up an git fat. When I went over there man's workin harder today than he did 25 year ago.

"But I reckon he thought Jim was goin to be somethin. 'Long last winter Jim began to shine up to one o' them Forstall girls—the one with the turn up nose-an it would 'a' made anybody plum sick to have saw the way the ole chawed terbaccer, an she jes' couldn't

" 'I tell you, they's outcome to that boy o' mine, that Jim,' he says to me, rubbin his hands together, pleased as pie. 'You wouldn't 'a' thought they was that much spunk in Jim, would you? An there he is, sparkin up to that girl, an her gran'pa was a member o' the she snorted, Jim's wife did, an said legislater! An shore as yer livin Jim'll they'd better hunt some other quarters, be in the legislater himeslf some day, fur he's got the nerve to try it.'

"It 'pears like I come to know all about this Freeman business kinder ac- natchally chimed in, an 'twan't long cidental like. You see, long middlin airly las' spring I got ole Nance one highstrikes, an sayin that she was inday an rode over to ole Freeman's for sulted in her own house, an other to borrer his harrer. I was a-gittin my things like that. garden ready, an it was that grassy it was plum boun for to be harrered.

an the ole man met me in the gal'ry lookin like he'd been a-cryin an says he: "'I'm a-fixin for change, Lije,' says

he. 'Jim's a-goin to get married Sunday, an me an the old woman is jes' is a-goin to take keer o' us the balance o' our days. You don't know how happy it makes me feel. I'm a-goin to have me a big cheer an set out here in the gal'ry where I kin watch the cows goin field, an where the ole woman kin listen to Jim's wife potterin round the house, you know, an I kin kinder oversee an on in this part o' the moral heritage. tell him how to do things, fur Jim don't know so pesky much about armin.'

"You better hol' on to that deed till you die,' says I in a warnin voice, 'and let the takin keer come first,' an, gracious, the ole man was so mad he come mighty nigh not lettin me have the harrer.

"Well, shore enough, Jim he married safe an soun, an for a good while ever'thing was as nice as pie. Ever' time I passed there the ole man an ole woman 'u'd be settin up in the gal'ry in two big cheers, lookin like they owned the earth an a good sized chunk o' the

OUR WEEKLY FASHION PLATE.

WALKING OR GOLF CAPE FROM HARPER'S BAZAR

A very jaunty and serviceable cape, which will prove equally adaptable for golf-links or city street use during the darker days of spring, is that shown above on this page, and of which a cut paper pattern is issued with the current number of Harper's Bazar, where the cloak appears. This exclusive design is cut in the latest form of out-door cape. The material employed is a double-faced Scotch wool cloth. This fabric is self-trimming, in that the bright hues of the plaids of one side are thrown into relief by the soft tone of the plain sides. The colors in the garment from which the design is taken are brilliant plain blue, with reverse side of red, yellow, pale blue, and white in the plaid. The plain side of the material is used for the body of the cape, the circular ruffle being of the plaid. The inside of the hood again employs the plaid side of the cloth, and is trimmed with a flat band of the smooth cloth stitched on both sides. The storm color fits rather closely about the head, and is shaped so as to be a real protection against the cold. The fringe which borders the plain material is bought separately and combines all the shades employed in the plaid. Where the cape is made of a shawl pattern, the fringe which belongs to the shawl will prove a sufficient trimming along in June for to take the harrer home, the ole man said he b'lieved he was good for 15 more years yet.

To make this cape for a person of medium size will require 21-2 yards of material 54 inches wide.

"Jim an his wife heerd it, an 'twasn't long after that before Jim's wife begin to fix for settlin the old folks' hash. She got awful mad because the ole man stand it, nohow, an she couldn't eat at the table with either of 'em because they e't with their knives, an she made 'em move into one o' the back shed rooms because their snorin disturbed her, an when, about a month ago the ole woman got sick, she jes' ripped an for she was plum tired o' waitin on 'em.

"That's the way it strikes me," rejoined Mr. Teakwood meditatively. "These things has got to be done right in the first place or you might as well fullness—fullness of wealth, of power, let 'em alone. Women's queer critters, the best you can do with 'em, an if you to the hand of a Palissy, the marble has oncet let 'em git the upper hand they're only to be pliant to the chisel of a a-goin to keep it, you hear me. Into the silence that fell as the soft drawl ceased came the cry of the whippoorwill, sent back in softer echoes from the distant hills. Then a head was fit as well as a very rainbow of peace thrust into sight at the doorway, its and joy in the home. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Feb. 26-Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.—Palm tree Christians.—Ps. xcii, 1-15.

The Ninety-second Psalm, as we learn from the Talmud, was sung in the temple on Sabbath morning. It speaks of the appropriateness of giving thanks unto God day and night, and praises His just government of the world and prophesies the final destruction of the wicked and the success and prosperity of the righteeus. This latter fact is made more vivid by comparing the righteous to the palm and the cedar "The righteous shall flourish like the palm tree; he shall grow like a cedar in Labanon." This comparison was a peculiarly happy one in Palestine, where the palm at one time was very abundant and useful, though rarely found today. Many comparisons readily suggest themselves between the righteous, the Christian and the palm tree. The leading characteristics of the palm will illustrate this fact. 1. The palm tree is noted for its beauty. "Its trunk is straight, tall and unbroken, terminating in a crown of emerald green plumes, like a diadem of gigantic ostrich feathers. These leaves are frequently 20 feet in length, droop slightly at the ends and whisper musically in the breeze." It is a most beautiful tree. In its beauty it is emblematic of Christian righteousness. What more beautiful than a Christian life? Moral beauty is much more to be desired than physical beauty, and, though it may not always seem so, yet it is really more admired even by men of the world. There is nothing more beautiful in the world than a pure, ennobling, humble, consistent Christian life.

2. The palm tree is noted for its fruitfulness. When 6 or 8 years old, it begins to bear fruit and does not cease its work until a century has passed away. Millions receive from it their daily food. It is put to 360 different uses and supplies almost all the wants of the Arab or Egyptian. It bears its best fruit in old age. The Christian should also be noted for fruitfulness. Fruit bearing is his mission in the world. "I have chosen you," says Christ, "that you might go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain."

3. The palm tree is noted for its height. It is usually at least 40 or 50 feet in height, and often attains a height of 80 feet. It grows heavenward, as the Christian should also do, partaking more and more of those graces which adorn the inhabitants of God's eternal

4. The palm tree is an indogenous tree. It grows on the inside. In this respect it also typifies the Christian. Christianity is not a reformation outside, but the implanting within us of new principles of life, which change the entire moral exterior of the man. 5. The palm tree is noted for its perpetual greenness. In winter's cold or summer's heat the palm continues green. It is evergreen, symbolical of the eternal life of the Christian.

Thus this beautiful, useful plant may well inspire us to strive to adorn the spiritual world with the same characteristics with which it beautifies and ennobles the physical world.

Dewey Wants the Oregon at Once.

The Request Is Made For Political Reasons.

Would Prevent Possible Foreign Interference.

Cabinet Thinks It Is to Influence Filipinos Through Fear.

Washington, Feb. 25.-A cablegram from Admiral Dewey asking for the Oregon was received with surprise by the officials here. No one knew the nature of the political reasons which the admiral says demand the immediate presence of the peerless battleship. The cablegram was taken to the cabinet meeting and fully discussed there. No other subject was considered by the cabinet. It is thought that a request for further details will be made. The admiral, it is said, possibly feels that the moral effect of the presence of the big ship upon the insurgents themselves would be good.

But there is an underlying doubt whether or not the admiral may not be sighting a gathering cloud in the east, and is looking to the prevention of any ossible intervention or interference by uropean powers in the struggle now progress near Manila. It is believed t in the big fires much property of ign residents and business concern destroyed. That these fires were reason for any such action on the hould be sent at once. "Yorktown arrived. Charleston and Petrel cruising around the Philippine lands. Affairs more quiet."

The cablegram watch produced such triking effects was received in cipher hich, translated, reads as follows: "For political reasons the Oregon

The cabinet, after considering Dewey's message relative to the present importce of sending the Oregon at once to Manila, reached the conclusion that too much importance should not be attached to it; that Dewey wants the big ship to influence the Filipinos through fear. Secretary Long said when asked for an explanation of the reference to political reasons in the dispatch:

"I am sure that it has no international significance. You may state that positively. Probably he wants a fine ship there as the American commissioners are about due, and it will give weight to the American representations."

It is suggested from other naval sources that Dewey wants the Oregon to release a number of the smaller ships of the fleet for other work. He has been planning a tour among the islands other than Luzon with the purpose of establishing order, as your prices are lower than I the authority of the United States among them. It is also necessary to establish a close blockade to prevent the insurgents from receiving supplies. These projects require for their execution a number of ships. Dewey cannot spare that at present, but when the Oregon gets into Manila harbor she will be sufciently formidable to insure the protection of the entire harbor in conjunction with the two big double-turreted monitors Monterey and Monadnock. The remainder of the fleet then will be free to carry out the projects. While these three armored vessels are lying in Manila bay there is no fear that any force can enter or pass out without their consent.

> Meeting of Cousuls. Manila, Feb. 25.—10:15 a. m.—Despite he threats of the Filipinos to burn the pusiness center, the inhabitants of Manila were not disturbed last night. There was not a single incident worth recording from the time when the streets were cleared until day dawned this morn-

Everything was equally quiet along the line outside, except for occasional volleys from bunches of the enemy at various points.

The enemy were most active along
General King's 2nd General Overshine's line from the beach to Pasig, but a few volleys of musketry, supplemented by shells from the Buffalo, effectually quiet-ed them. The foreign consuls met yesterday to confer regarding commercial interests, but the result of their deliberations has not been communicated, it is understood, to the American authorities. The British consul was not present at the conference.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A PINE WOODS PRINTERY AND THE WOMAN WHO RUNS IT.

Why She Was Radiant-The Happy, Contented Expression-Laughing as an Art-A Favorite of Fortune-The Stanlaws Face.

The pine wood of northern Wisconsin is about the last place in the world that one would look to for the production of exquisite handmade books, and that such should be the work of a woman from start to finish does not lessen the anomaly. Indeed Mrs. Helen Bruneau Van Vechten of Wausau, Wis., is in all probability the only woman bookmaker in this or any other country. Of women writers there are many, of women bookbinders not a few, while here and there women decorators are beginning to dot the literary horizon, but it remained for Mrs. Van Vechten to fall in love with the art of printing, and one has but to look through some of her "limited editions" to realize the far cry between books made con amore and books made to sell.

Merely as an incidental, Mrs. Van Vechten's husband became a partner of William H. Ellis, who had just begun to issue The Philosopher, and who had under consideration various plans for publishing books. It soon became evident that there was too much work for the limited force of the office, and Mrs. Van Vechten, who had nothing to do, offered to take care of the correspondence. In this way she gradually became per the air. au courant of the business and proved that her judgment upon all commercial points was clear, sound and farseeing. Her taste, too, upon margins, arrangement, the use of color, etc., was invariably found to be fine and discriminat ing and thus came to be the deciding voice. In short, by the mere process of evolution, Mrs. Van Vechten became the firm, not only speaking the final discretion and artistic judgment, but | "Ha! has! doing a large part of the manual labor perfection of the type, the spread of the pleasing manner. ink, etc., after which, entirely unaidentire the monthly issue of The Phil osopher.

Mrs. Van Vechten has taken up this work from pure love of good workmanship, and occasionally takes advantage friends gifts of rare value, as when, for example, she got out an exquisite edition of Spenser's "Epithalamium" on for wedding presents. Browning's says a very successful trainer of the "Andrea del Sarto" and Keats' "Odes" for private distribution were also superb works of art.

Notwithstanding her delightful home Mrs. Van Vechten is rather given to receiving her intimat, friends in her printing office, where, although nothing has been done to modify its distinctive business character, it is not without atmosphere - that atmosphere which a collection of the best thoughts treasured volume.

It is indeed worth a long journey to find in the very midst of pine forests this spot consecrated to the noble art of bookmaking and to sit with the philosophers until the hours grow small talking of those master minds whom to serve in any capacity is to the reverent mind a royal privilege.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

There is little spontaneity in their smiles or real happiness in their restless little outbursts of shrill laughter. They are "going to have a good time," and they go at it as a business. In the sharp lines and quick repartee and not too gentle joke one catches a glimpse of what the years will bring to these merrymakers. Then there are the wholly indifferent faces of those who seem either to have lost or never had any cordial affinity with life, but to have used their energies simply to meet its shod over old prejudices by recommendrequirements. How to Use a Fan.

Sukashi Kakari, a young Japanese gentleman who is spending some time visiting New York and other eastern cities, has studied the habits of the American woman and has come to the conclusion that in one respect at least she is behind her oriental sister. She does not know how to fan herself properly. Mr. Kakari says the majority of American women rest their wrists on their breasts, and as the fan goes back and forth the breeze goes mostly up in the air while the fair ones' faces catch only the outer edge of it. In Japan, he says, the women hold their fans perpendicularly before their faces, and what little breeze is lost is not worth having. As to fans, Mr. Kakari says he has noticed quantities on exhibition in the stores, claiming to be Japanese, which no Japanese woman would ever carry. Genuine Japanese folding fans always have perfectly plain wood supports on the outside. No carving or decorations are ever put there, because the oriental girls keep their fans when not in use in their tunics.

Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an ex-Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe

> > NEWS IN BRIEF.

Princeton university is to have a new chair of English literature, and it is confidently expected that Rev. Dr. Mich. Henry Van Dyke, now pastor of a Presbyterian church at New York, will be its first occupant.

Count Bernard Rochberg-Rothenlowen, the distinguished Austrian statesman, formerly minister of foreign affairs and the incumbent of other important administrative posts under Emperor Francis Joseph, died at Vienna in his 93rd year.

Captain Henry T. Blake of the revenue cutter Dallas, at Boston, has been relieved of his command and ordered to his home in Philadelphia. He has been seriously ill with the grip.

Samuel L. R. Cheney, 93, the oldest man in Brattleboro, Vt., is dead. He represented the town of Jamaica in the legislature for five years. He had voted for every president since John Quincy Adams. He had been a staunch Republican since the foundation of the party. Police Lieutenant Timothy Enright of Boston died suddenly after a long illness. He had served on the police force since 1875.

HEART DISEASE.

SOME FACTS REGARDING THE RAP ID INCREASE OF HEART TOUBLES.

Do Not Be Alarmed, But Look for the Cause.

Heart troubles at least among the Americans, are certainly increasing and while this may be largely due to the excitement and worry of American business life, it is more often the result of weak stomachs, of poor digestion. Real organic disease is incurable;

but not one case in a hundred of heart trouble is organic. The close relation between heart rouble and poor digestion is because both organs are controlled by the same great nerves, the Sympathetic and Pneumogastric. In another way, also the heart effected by the form of poor digestion which causes gas and fermentation from half deigsted food; There is a eeling of oppression and heaviness the chest caused by pressure of the dis-tended stomach on the heart and lungs interfering with the action; hence arises palpitation and short breath. Poor digestion also poisons the blood, making it thin and watery which irritates and weakens th oroner immediately issued a warlatter was at once arraigned before him. Through his attorney, Bartow S. Weeks, he demanded an immediate hearing, but Assistant District Attorney Osborne objected, saying it was impossible to pro ceed with the hearing. The hearing was then set down for tomorrow morning at 11:30 o'clock. Molineux was committed to the Tombs without bail.

The curtain rose on the last act of the melodrama yesterday afternoon. A shopkeeper, who rented private letter boxes, swore positively that Molineux was his patron, using the name of "H. C. Barnet." It was proved long ago hat bottles of medicine had been sent o that letter box. Then the handwriting experts were called, and one after another declared that the hand that wrote the address on the poison pack age and forged the names of Harry Cornish and H. C. Barnet to letters sent to drug firms ordering powder medicines was the hand of Roland B. Molineux. The experts were absolutely certain in their identification of the penmanship, and would make no qualification of their At 4:35 o'clock Colonel Gardiner announced that the evidence in the hands of the people had been given, and he began to sum up the case. He explained the reasons for the delay in bringing the case to an investigation, saying that it was necessary to determine whether Mrs. Adams had in reality died of poison as it was possible for the district at-

"In consequence of the publicity which the case was given," continued Colonel Certain methods had therefore to be adopted to disarm suspicion. We realized that we must have evidence of the handwriting of the person we suspected. We suspected also that the person who committed the crime had knowledge of chemistry.

"The first witness placed on the stand (Cornish) was made to suspect that we thought he was the guilty party, and the evidence he gave was the evidence of a man full of consternation. But we disperson. The very next man to go upon the stand (Molineux) was the person that "When this witness was called and my apologetic manner, it was done to disarm him of suspicion. There was a genattorney's office on this account. But we had a duty to perform. We were son. Then the guilty person, seeing that he was not suspected, was perfectly will ing to give us all the handwriting we wanted, and we got it. The evidence given by these experts in handwriting seems to me to be conclusive. There was another element in this case of wonderful importance. That is the circumstantial evidence which was brought out. There was the purchase of the bottle holder. Where was that bought? In Newark on the 21st day of December

Then come to our offices and investigate the bundreds of other marvellous cures produced by hundreds of other marvellous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, whad been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was a preying upo I was then unable for any work, and reeing worse from day to day; realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EBEN FISH, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Fall River, Mass., Feb. 28.-At a conference between the executive board of Fall River Textile Council representathe operatives was a complete restoration of the wage scale prior to the cutdown of Jan. 3, 1898.

The cut at that time was one-ninth in all departments, which meant a decrease of over $20,000 in the weekly payrestoration will date from April 3 next. The offer of the manufacturers included local labor leaders to bring about the adoption of a sliding scale at the convenience of the manufacturers and operatives alike. The restoration, however, was not made conditional upon the adoption of the sliding scale.

The expected proposition from the manufacturers of a partial restoration was presented to the meeting in the form of an offer of a 61/2 percent raise, balance to be restored when cloth had advanced to 3 cents a yard. This proposition was met by the members of the Textile Council with the argument that the delegates of the organizations represented were instructed to accept nothing short of a full restoration of wages The argument was advanced on behalf of the Manufacturers' association that and his crew of six men of the three- a sliding scale might be adopted which would be just to both employers and employes, and which could be based she had been driven ashore on the bar off upon figures that would approximate a restoration. Many speeches were made. It was called to the attention of the counci that the wages paid at present in Fall River were higher than those paid in New Bedford or Rhode Island cotton towns, and much higher than in the

The manufacturers finally submitted the following written proposition: "In consideration of the fact that each immune regiment nor the gendarmerie and every member of the Textile Council now pledges his individual support to the endeavor to arrive at some method of regulating wages by a sliding scale,
